It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

The joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives on the State University, to whom was referred the following preamble and concurrent resolutions, introduced into the House January 12, and concurred in by the Senate January 17, viz.:

Whereas, A defalcation, extending over a long period of years, and embracing quite a large sum of money, has been discovered in the management of the chemical laboratory of the State University;

And whereas, The Regents of the University in their "statement of certain needs of the University of Michigan," which they have published and placed in the hands of the members of the Legislature, have invited, and generously offered every facility for the most thorough and exhaustive investigation, either of the defalcation itself, or of their mode of treating it; therefore,

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the committees on the University of the Senate and House of Representatives be and they are hereby instructed, jointly, to make a thorough and exhaustive investigation of said defalcation and of any and every subject-matter connected therewith, which in their judgment may require investigation, to the end that said committees may report to their respective Houses whether any, and if so what legislation is needed, and that said committee sit with open doors;

Resolved, That said committees have leave to sit during the sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives, and be empowered to administer oaths, compel the attendance of persons and the production of papers, and to employ a stenographer to take and transcribe the testimony at a compensation not exceeding ten cents per folio;

Beg leave to submit the following as their report:

Your committee appointed under the foregoing resolutions, as directed by them, entered upon the task imposed, and have continued in the prosecution of it for more than two months, laying aside other important and pressing duties, and giving such time to this as the grave and painful matters brought under our notice seemed to demand.

That an institution founded by the generosity and wisdom of those who guided the affairs of the State in its infancy, and who, after caring for and fostering it for a generation, are fast passing away from our midst, leaving it as a rich and royal legacy for all after time, should have connected with it so great a scandal, is sad indeed ; and still more painful if its investigation shall leave names which have been rarely spoken except with reverence, tarnished, and the public confidence so lavishly bestowed upon its management shaken and impaired.

It was to avoid these and other dangers, no doubt, that the care and management of the University was at a very early day taken from the territorial legislature and faculty and put into the hands of a Board of Regents, who, after many changes, were at length made elective in 1862. The evident intention was, no doubt, to put the government and control of this great educational power into hands skilled in such work and minds biased by no other official relations.

It was manifestly the duty of this board to whom the people confided so great a trust to so conduct its business affairs, as well as direct its educational work, as to fully meet all proper expectations, and to so guard the funds left to their control as to prevent loss to the State. Certainly the acceptance of such high trusts should have been regarded as binding each member to a rigorous and faithful performance of every duty thereby imposed upon him.

Such has been the conviction of the people, we believe, who have so confidently relied upon the wisdom and fidelity of their management, and for the most part, we are satisfied that this management has been both careful and wise. Considering that these numerous services were rendered gratuitously year after year,—that the State exacted those of the highest order without fee or reward, or even thanks, it is no small compliment to say that the Regents have ordinarily proved themselves faithful custodians of the public trust reposed in their hands ; and yet we do not wish to conceal our conviction that grave irregularities have been permitted, extending over a long term of years, and such as few business men would have permitted in their own affairs.

The by-laws of the Board of Regents require that an annual meeting shall be held in the month of June of each year, and provide for adjourned and called meetings from time to time as the exigencies may require. As a matter of fact the custom has been for many years to meet about once in three months. The annual meetings have occupied from one to four days, and the called and adjourned meetings from one-half a day to two days, usually.

Now it must be apparent to every person acquainted with the wide range of university instruction at Ann Arbor, and the multiplicity and variety of mechanical and financial transactions which come under their supervision and control, that these meetings, as thus held, were not and could not be sufficient to give the Regents the needful opportunities for a full and exhaustive examination of the interior working of the several departments of the University, much less for an active and thorough supervision and control of all its financial and mechanical transactions. To this limited time given and superficial supervision bestowed, we attribute largely the unfortunate state of things disclosed by this investigation.

Suitable books were not provided, adequate checks were not instituted, and the whole system, if system it may be called, was fragmentary, without uniformity and without safety. The chemical laboratory was established in 1853, and after a time the professor of chemistry came to be recognized as its director. To this officer was committed, either tacitly or by action of the Regents, its entire management and control, subject only to a very slight direction and supervision. Strange as it may seem, to him was entrusted a power over its affairs as absolute as fate, and an authority with which even the Board itself did not care to interfere. He bought and sold at pleasure. He sent to Philadelphia, New York, or Europe, as he chose. He expended in traveling to New York, Philadelphia, or Boston, and no one challenged the bill. He made a report in June or in October, and whether accurate or inaccurate, it passed no rigid scrutiny, and stood uncorrected in some instances where the entries were incomplete and the footings false. Indeed, in some instances the reports were neither examined by the Regents or passed upon at all.

But it was all the same to the Director. He undertook important work, involving the expenditure of thousands of dollars with no resolutions of the board authorizing him so to do, allowed himself a certain per cent, more or less, as the case might be, and took his pay out of such funds as he chose, and then included the transactions in his annual report, and there it ended. A committee was appointed by the board to expend a large appropriation of the Legislature, their plans were made, the work contracted for, the Director was not suited: he pushed all aside, expended the money, and exceeded the appropriation thousands of dollars, and the board did not even protest against it. The laboratory was making money, it was thought, every year, and yet the Director was charging interest on money which he claimed to have advanced to equip and run it every year, and the Regents quietly paid the ten per cent interest without inquiring too closely whether the laboratory was always in funds or not. In the language employed by another, "Whatever may be thought of this mode of doing business, it affords touching evidence of the confidential relations that existed between these gentlemen." The laboratory, we have said, was always in funds. Nothing can be clearer than the fact that a surplus was on hand every year, and yet the Regents allowed during the years covered by this investigation the aggregate amount of $926.88 for interest on what was claimed as advances to the laboratory during these years! It is true the Director claims that much of the money in his hands was held on call, ready to be returned to students, who, after paying their entrance fees, failed to get a table or to commence work, and had a right to claim the money thus prepaid, but the evidence shows that he never paid back a single dollar.

The Director employed assistants from time to time, who were responsible to him alone, except so far as his pay by the Regents established relations with them. In this manner and under like circumstances was P. B. Rose employed April 3d, 1866. The Regents did not employ him by resolution, as their by-laws required, but after a time they recognized him as assistant in the chemical laboratory. The Director, however, in the meantime, employed him as clerk and book-keeper, and responsible alone to himself as such.

On what ground the Director can be exempted from the chief and primary responsibility for the entire management of that department, it is difficult to imagine.

DEFALCATION IN THE CHEMICAL LABORATORY.

That the manner of accounting in the chemical laboratory should not have received more attention from the Regents, and its irregularities been corrected by them during all these years, seems strange indeed. Many improvements had been made at different times. For many years no ledger or proper cash book or account book of any kind appears to have been kept by any one whatever. Previous to 1860 all is unknown. After that year something like a system appears to have been in vogue. Each student desiring instruction in the chemical laboratory made a deposit of $10, and took a ticket, on the face of which was his receipt for the deposit. On the back of this ticket or card was a statement that "by direction of the Regents chemicals and apparatus are furnished to students at the cost price of New York dealers." On settling his account at the close of his term in the laboratory, the student placed the amount paid for all material used on the back of the card, signed his name and turned it over to the Director to be used as a voucher in his settlement with the Regents. A ledger was also used in which the account with the student was kept, and from which he determined the amount to be entered on the back of his card which he turned over to the Director.

This is what is called in the testimony a "card-voucher." Numerous variations from this course were, however, permitted.

In 1866 the system was changed again. Stub-books were substituted for cards or tickets. These provided a certificate and a stub for each student. The student under this system made his deposit of $10, which was entered with his name and the date on the face of the certificate and the stub; the certificate was torn off, signed by the book-keeper, and passed over to the student as his receipt for the deposit. The stub was retained in the book. The student on completing his course settled by the ledger, certified to the amount paid on the back of his certificate, and turned it over to be used in the same manner as the card vouchers. This was a full settlement with the student. The assistant or book-keeper settled with the Director as follows: Once a month or oftener the Director and assistant would examine the stub-book; the assistant would turn over the deposit money of each student, and the Director would mark the stub with his name or one or more initials, usually only a letter D. The vouchers of students who had finished their course and returned their certificates would then be turned over to the Director, and under his direction a red line would be drawn diagonally across the stub corresponding to the certificate. The settlement for the deposit money would always precede that for the certificate. The final settlement would require the payment to the Director of the amount on the back of the certificate, made less by the deposit on its face. This and other improvements in the system of accounting in the laboratory was introduced by recommendation of Mr. Rose soon after entering upon his duties as assistant in the laboratory.

The ledger accounts were also greatly improved. Previous to 1864 no cash payments were ever entered in the ledger. After that the first deposit was frequently entered, but no subsequent payments except in a few instances. After Rose took charge of the books the accounts were entered in full, and on final settlement of the student properly balanced. Still the system was very defective. At length the Regents took the matter in hand, and on the 15th of October, 1875, passed the following resolution, offered by Regent Rynd:

"Resolved, That the director of the chemical laboratory shall, in future, present quarterly estimates covering all probable purchases, that all moneys received for sale of chemicals to students be duly accounted for and paid quarterly into the treasury; and further, that duplicate vouchers be presented, as in all other departments, covering all payments in accordance with the existing law."

It will be seen that this resolution proposed a complete revolution in the system in vogue in the Laboratory. Reports of sums in gross could no longer be made. All vouchers would be under the scrutiny of many persons, and each transaction must be reported near the time of its occurrence. No moneys were to be left in the hands of the Director, except for a brief time, and irresponsible purchases no longer tolerated. The whole department was to be subjected to the most rigid scrutiny. In three days from that time Dr. Douglas testifies he accidentally discovered a defalcation. He was making up his annual report, he says. It should have been made in June, but had been delayed till October. He found, he claims, that no vouchers had been turned over to him by Rose for students who had finished their course. His suspicions being aroused, he presented Rose with four names of delinquent students and claimed payment. Three of these were stubless accounts, and one had a corresponding stub signed by himself with his initial D, and marked with a red line. Dr. Rose was weak enough, to say the least, to pay these, although he swears that he assured Dr. Douglas they had been paid, and showed him the stub thus signed and marked. Now, if Dr. Douglas had no knowledge of an account without a stub to correspond, as he solemnly swears he had not at that time, and, indeed, never had, it does not seem very honorable in him to deduct only $10 for one stub payment, when, as he should have, on his own testimony, deducted $40 for entry fees. And why he did not deduct also the whole account, which the red line on the stub showed had been accounted for to him, is also a mystery, especially as he swears he did not suspect any forgery at this time. The truth is, beyond a doubt, that these accounts had been rendered in the July settlement, and the money turned over to Dr. Douglas.

There is no escape from this conclusion. It is true that Dr. Rose certifies that these four vouchers had been mislaid or lost. He also made out a list of accounts and certifies that the vouchers were turned over on the day the list was certified to, when the truth is, beyond a question, that every voucher included in the list had been turned over to Dr. Douglas at different times previously. Such inconsistencies are simply astounding. Who can unravel such a web of mysteries? The discovered fraud a hoax! the acknowledged guilt of defalcation a falsehood!

Prof. Prescott was then called in and informed in the most secret and confidential manner, and convinced of Dr. Rose's guilt. Then President Angell was approached in like manner, and also convinced. How were they convinced? They were taken to his private residence, told that Rose had virtually acknowledged his guilt, had made out and certified to a list of accounts which had not been rendered to him. The lists were placed before them to prove it; the ledger was also produced, showing that the money had all gone into the hands of Dr. Rose; and there the showing ended.

Now, it is evident to any one acquainted with the system of accounting in the laboratory that every vestige of proof that Rose had ever paid a dollar of this money to Douglas was thus withheld. Why did he not bring forward the stub-book, containing the only evidence that Rose ever retained, that these accounts had been rendered and receipted for upon it? They had been in nearly every instance. This transaction is one of the most painful things in this unhappy affair. Then came the calling together of two of the executive committee of the Board, consisting of Regents Walker and McGowan, who entrusted the whole matter of continuing the investigation to those who had thus formed an opinion of Rose's guilt, and who, guided by Dr. Douglas, conducted it on this theory until a defalcation of thousands of dollars was traced, as they alleged, to his hands. Then the Regents were notified of his guilt, and the papers got hold of the matter and announced his defalcation.

Under these circumstances the refusal of Dr. Rose to join in the investigation any longer, although under the advice of his attorney, was construed to indicate his guilt.

If all the circumstances could have been foreseen, no doubt it would have been better to have at least continued to show such defense as was clearly tenable.

In due time, however, this action of Dr. Rose was followed by propositions in almost every possible form for a full and final investigation by a committee, the full Board, or by an amicable suit in the court. This was refused. The exaction of a payment of over $600, added to other payments amounting to $831.10, besides interest, constitutes another important feature of these proceedings. Further on, a deed of all the property Rose possesses is demanded and given at once. All this time Rose shows a reticence unaccountable, and an acquiescence in proceedings which, if fully justified, must blast his reputation forever. Those who now defend him pronounced him a scoundrel, and those who formerly honored him turned away with grief and shame. A few, however, still doubted his guilt, and to them from time to time he confided what seemed to them proof of innocence. They commenced a complete review of the whole case. They appealed to the Regents for a full and final hearing, or an amicable suit at law. They appealed in vain. Bitter warfare attended and followed these movements. The history is public and need not be repeated. In the meantime the Board of Regents had pursued the investigation. A committee looked over the work of the President, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Douglas, and Mr. Knight, and certified to its correctness in their report, called the Gilbert-Walker report, made to the Board December 21, 1875. Against the proceedings and conclusions of this committee Dr. Rose protested. A second committee was appointed on December 21, 1875, immediately after a vote had been taken to dismiss Dr. Rose from the University, to "investigate Dr. Douglas' accounts with the University," which consisted of Regents S. S. Walker, Climie, and Rynd, who made a report on the 29th of March, following. It is worthy of remark that this committee employed accomplished accountants and made the most searching investigation ever made by the Regents. Dr. Douglas was with this committee frequently,—Dr. Rose never.

They no doubt conscientiously and diligently conducted their investigation, and reached very different conclusions from those reached by all former examinations. They make the defalcation over $3,000 more than the Gilbert-Walker report. A minority report, by Regent S. S. Walker, only slightly changes this result.

This defalcation was not traced to any party by this examination.

It was left to another committee, appointed at the March meeting, consisting of Regents McGowan, Grant, and Estabrook, who reported June 19th, 1876, to continue the investigation and fix as far as possible the responsibility upon the parties severally who ought to be held accountable.

This report held Dr. Rose responsible for $4,333.06, and Dr. Douglas for $1,174.35. While we accord to these committees a sincere desire to reach the truth and present the facts in this unhappy affair, we are compelled to say they did not have all the data necessary to accomplish these aims, nor did they seem conscious that other evidence might be at hand that might materially change the aspect of the whole matter.

When, therefore, Rose and his friends offered to submit his whole case to the Board or a committee of it, they pushed the offer aside as a "game of brag," and prepared to put the matter into the hands of a court for adjustment. A bill was filed in the circuit court in chancery for the county of Washtenaw soon after this report, to which we wish to call attention, especially the following features :

1. The bill alleges that from June 28th, 1865, to December 21st, 1875, "Rose and Douglas were both salaried agents and employés of the complainants (the Board of Regents), each having certain duties assigned him in respect to the laboratory, which he assumed and undertook to perform," and that "Rose was by a like appointment as Douglas performing certain duties."

2. It alleges that "Rose, although often requested so to do, has hitherto neglected and refused to account with the complainants (Regents) in respect to the laboratory receipts or any of the matters hereinbefore mentioned, and although the defendant Douglas has been at all times ready and willing to account, and has accounted with respect thereto in so far as it has been in his power so to do; yet no complete account has been found practicable without an accounting with the defendant Rose also;" and also "that the said Rose fraudulently omitted to truly credit in the said laboratory ledger," etc.; and further, "that he has fraudulently appropriated the same (certain funds) to his own use."

3. It also alleges that Rose had not only fraudulently appropriated moneys, but "by fraudulent contrivances and misrepresentations" had induced Douglas to pay over and account to the Regents moneys which he has fraudulently used.

4. The bill prays that the court will find what amount Douglas has accounted for to the Regents, which he has not secured from defendant Rose.

5. It meekly prays for the court to find what sum may be in Douglas' hands, and make it an offset against what the University owes him.

It will be seen that the whole theory of the bill is that Rose is a rascal of the deepest dye, and Douglas an innocent and much injured man. Why he should be made a defendant in such a suit can only be explained on technical grounds.

How carefully his innocence is asserted and protected under the allegations in this bill!

How carefully the court is instructed to find no more against him than his accounts against the University will offset!

But what if the University owes him nothing? What would the court find in such a case?

It is not a little strange also that a bill drawn so carefully to protect Douglas should be full of mistakes in regard to Rose?

In the first place Rose was not in the employ of the Regents till nearly a year later than the bill asserts, if, indeed, he was even then.

In the second place he was, during those many years, never employed at all by a resolution of the Board, as the rules of the Board required. He was simply employed by Dr. Douglas as an accountant and held accountable to him alone.

Dr. Douglas was the Director of the laboratory, and in our opinion alone accountable to the Board.

We have very grave doubts whether the bill did not give away the case entirely. Certainly if Douglas was criminally in default it is a puzzle to know how it could be proved under the allegations of this bill.

The manner in which it is drawn can but force the conviction upon any candid mind that the influence brought to bear to secure the filing of such a bill must have its paternity traceable equally to certain Regents and the friends of Dr. Douglas, and such conclusion is clearly borne out by the testimony in regard to this unhappy transaction. We come now to the main question in this investigation, viz.: How much is the defalcation in the chemical laboratory, and to whose hands can it be traced?

After a most searching investigation by competent accountants who have spent months in analyzing, tracing, and tabulating these accounts, we are satisfied that the following analysis derived from their work sufficiently indicates, as far as can ever be known, the various classes of delinquent accounts, and the aggregate amount.

* Tickets not reported by Dr. Douglas—two of which were found with the Steward.

In the treatment we have given these delinquent accounts, they are divided into three classes, viz.: Accounts where the tickets are missing, or the certificates, corresponding with the stubs in the stub-book having the red line and letter D, are wanting. Accounts forfeited, where the certificates were never returned by the students. And accounts simply on the ledger, when no tickets or certificates were ever issued.

Of the first class there are in all 132 accounts, aggregating $3,349 73
Of the second class 71, amounting to 899 59
And of the third 133, amounting to 1,547 85

The number of accounts in all being 336, aggregating $5,797 17

Every account of the first class is confessedly traceable to Dr. Douglas' hand, unless the letter D in the stub-book is forged, or the red line, or both.

THE QUESTION OF FORGING THE INITIAL D.

The June committee, in their investigation took into consideration the question of the alleged spurious signatures or forged D's. In this investigation the question has not arisen directly, or, what would be a more proper statement, Dr. Douglas has not attempted to prove that there has been a forgery, although he has testified that he "believed" that a great many D's were forged, and especially the signature of "Douglas" on stub No. 44 in stub-book No. 2. We have made examination, and find in several places he has spelled his name in almost the identical manner, or in ways equally peculiar. For instance, on page 93 of the ledger for 1873-4 we find that he spelled his name "Doglas;"

on page 141 of the same ledger we find his name is signed "Dougles;" in "Exhibit J" we find his signature "Dougled;" and on the hotel register of the Lansing House, under date of Feb. 22, 1877, he has signed his own name "Dougles," his brother's name "Douglas," and his son's name "Dougless." Thus it will be seen that it was not conclusive evidence of forgery because the name was misspelled. Dr. Rose testifies that Dr. Douglas signed his name to this stub, and to all other stubs where the letter D is placed as the initial signature; and Dr. Douglas, when asked if he would swear that he did not write it, said that he would not say that he did not, but that he did not think that he did.

There are evidences from which your committee conclude that this signature especially is nothing but a genuine signature. In the first place Dr. Douglas claims or acknowledges that stub 43 is genuine, and the next one after, stub 45, is also genuine. Now, stub 45 at the bottom of the page could not have been signed without glancing at stub 44 at the top of the page to see whether the initial signature had been placed on stub 44; and this name "Dougles," being an unusual manner of receipting on the stub-book, would have been detected at the time. And again, if any one had attempted a forgery, it is but reasonable to believe that there would have been an attempt at an imitation of the usual method of receipting, which was by the more simple and easy method of writing the initial D. Again, Dr. Douglas and Dr. Rose both testify that in their mode of settlement they usually, almost invariably, placed some mark upon the stub upon which they commenced the settlement and upon which Dr. Douglas commenced writing his initial, in order that they might know where to begin and count up to see what money was due Dr. Douglas from Dr. Rose. Now, if this was the case,—and we are satisfied from the testimony and from an examination of the stub-books, that it was almost always done in this manner,—we believe that there is but one conclusion which can follow, namely, that if there are forgeries they must occur immediately preceding those marks of settlement, and not scattered or mixed all through with the genuine. Again, we find there are some 12 or 13 stubs where the doctor has neglected to sign his initial D; and we are confident in the opinion that if Dr. Rose had been in the habit of forging he would not have failed to fill out these vacant stubs with the initial D in order to make sure of the only receipt that was given for deposit money turned over to Dr. Douglas.

An important factor of this defalcation, and which is so closely connected with the genuineness of the signatures, and which goes to swell the delinquency, is the all of which have the D and the red line. The deposits on these stubs amount to upwards of $1,000; and, as we have stated that the evidence before this committee shows, and also the stub-books, the initial D's could not have been forged only at intervals, and immediately preceding the settlement marks; and as there has been no evidence to prove such forgeries, and as the stub signed "Dougles" is not in a position in the stub-book where it could have been a forgery, your committee find that this whole sum of the deposit money must have been in the hands of Dr. Douglas, and unaccounted for by him.

Dr. Douglas has also claimed that this deposit money was in his hands and as we find no instance where one single dollar of this money was paid back, we cannot see how this claim can be substantiated; and as we find that he has never paid back a single dollar to a student, neither any moneys to Dr. Rose,—which he would have done had this been called out of his hands during this period of ten years,—we are forced to the conclusion that it has been kept “on call” almost too long for the best financial interests of the University!

"SUBJECT TO CALL;"

We also find, in regard to this question of moneys on call, that Rose always had to pay a balance to Douglas, so that moneys once passed to Douglas were never called back or made subject to call; also, Dr. Douglas states that he kept no entry or account of this deposit money; but your committee see in that statement no valid or adequate reason why he should have retained these moneys, amounting to upwards of $1,000, in his hands, running through these eleven years, or why he should not have reported those deposits each year; and we therefore think that this deposit money was not reported by Douglas and is in his hands.

A further fact in connection with these missing tickets is that each stub corresponding has a red line, which indicates, according to the testimony of both Rose and Douglas, that the ticket corresponding, and the money called for by the back of the ticket, had been turned over to Dr. Douglas. As there is no evidence before the committee showing that those red lines are misplaced or are not genuine, we are forced to the only conclusion possible, that Dr. Douglas has received the certificates and the money from Dr. Rose. To further sustain this conclusion, we find that there is every evidence that some of those missing tickets were turned over to Dr. Douglas but not returned by him to the University, namely:

YEAR.	NO. OF STUB.	NAME.	AMOUNT.
1872-3	73	A. K. Hale	$67 00
“	89	T. S. Wilber	63 05
“	72	R. H. McCarthy	89 10
“	1	S. D. Chapin	49 25
“	64	A. C. Stevens	65 90
“	85	S. Armstrong	40 35
“	92	H. Ehrhardt	52 10
1873-4	150	T. A. Cady	34 25
1874-5	62	L. F. Beach	51 40
“	207	J. H. Sauls	18 30
“	183	M. E. Johnson	31 15

The evidence besides the red line is clear that these tickets were returned to Dr. Douglas, as they were included in the final settlements of those years, and the amount paid at these times must have included these tickets, as there was nothing else possible that could have been included to make the sums paid by Dr. Rose to Douglas at those times, as shown by the bank checks; and further, the ticket of G. W. Harvey, $34.35, which has the red line but is not with the steward, is upon the wrapper No. 1. This ticket must have been passed over from Dr. Rose to Dr. Douglas, else it would not have appeared upon the wrapper. Further, the accounts of the three names of C. F. West, $11, C. C. Miller, $11.15, and F. C. Murdock, $11.95, were receipted for by Dr. Douglas under his own hand and signature Dec. 10, 1875, stating that he had received the above three vouchers with the money to correspond. They also have the red line upon them, and the accountant, Tregaskis, finds they are yet unaccounted for to the University by Dr. Douglas, he having never reported the money or returned the vouchers or certificates.

FORFEITED ACCOUNTS.

A "forfeited account" consists in this: When a student enters the laboratory and makes the customary deposit, he then works for a period of time, using materials amounting to sometimes less than his deposit, but usually more: he then leaves without settling his account, taking his ticket with him. According to the by-laws, a student so leaving before he had worked three months and not having used material to the amount of his deposit, the balance of the deposit was a forfeit to the University; but they more frequently left the laboratory owing the same; and it has been customary in all these investigations to treat the original deposit in these cases as forfeiture also. In some cases, after working out his original deposit and wishing to use more materials under the rules, he was required to make an additional payment or deposit, which, provided he left as before stated, without making a settlement, has been termed a "sub-payment" (that is, subsequent payment) on forfeitures.

As the unreported forfeitures and the sub-payments on forfeitures amount to something like $900, your committee deem it an important feature in this defalcation, and have endeavored to give that attention to this class of accounts that we considered their great importance demanded of us. Your committee find that in the first five years covered by this investigation, namely, 1864-5, 1865-6, 1866-7, 1867-8, and 1868-9, Dr. Douglas in his annual settlements has reported the forfeitures at the end of the year in which they occur; also the sub-payments for the same time and for the year 1869-70; and that for the next five years thereafter we find no mention made of this class of accounts in the doctor's annual reports. The next time this class of accounts appears upon Dr. Douglas' reports is in his annual report for the year 1874-5, made out at the time of the discovery, or after this defalcation was discovered. In every year previous to this, excepting two,—of which the records make no mention,—the records show that these reports were handed in in the month of June; and when we consider that this report should have been made out in June, and that for five years these accounts have been kept in the background, we are forced to the conviction that this report at this time is something very peculiar, to say the least. This report contains the larger part of the forfeitures for 1872-3 and 1873-4; and the quarterly report following this contains nearly all of the forfeitures for 1874-5, leaving still wholly unreported the forfeitures for the years 1869-70, 1870-1, and 1871-2.

Dr. Douglas testifies in regard to these forfeited accounts as follows: Page 373 he states that Rose made annual reports of the forfeitures and he reported them; page 413 he says Rose never reported to him any forfeited accounts but what he reported to the Regents; he also put in evidence what he claims as an annual statement of forfeitures, and testifies (pages 372-3) that Rose made him similar ones for the other years; and page 18 of Feb. 24 he says in every case he reported them to the University.

If this is true, why has the doctor failed to report for the five years we have named as unreported? Page 295, Dr. Douglas testifies that forfeited accounts will be found credited on his reports from year to year. So your committee find,—except for the years 1869-70, 1870-1, 1871-2, 1872-3, 1873-4, in which reports we fail to find one single dollar.

Pages 283 and 285, Dr. Douglas testifies that he frequently examined the stub-books, and would say to Rose, "Why don't you settle these accounts up and get them out of the way?" Pages 373-4, he swears that he and Rose looked over the stub-books together for forfeitures; and in this, almost for the first time, he is corroborated by Dr. Rose. Page 372, Dr. Douglas testifies that there were frequent sub-payments on forfeited accounts, and gave an example of such account,—Mr. Thum's. If this statement is true, as it really is, why did not Dr. Douglas use every means in his power to collect them and then report them? Page 374, he says he never required the sub-payments on forfeited accounts. Since he knew that such accounts did exist, why not require them? And then on page 413 he testifies that Rose never reported to him any sub-payments on forfeited accounts, and he never knew of such. We cannot imagine what the doctor was thinking of, when we find that he has reported them in every year for the first six years.

He also in 1867-8 received the account of one Pomeroy, of $30. This was a sub-payment on forfeitures, and he receipted for the same on the ledger with his own signature; and the doctor, forgetting the receipt of this account, has up to the present time failed to report it. In Dr. Douglas' account for 1873-4 we find the account of one Parsons, amounting to $44.95. This was a sub-payment on forfeited accounts, and was collected personally by Dr. Douglas in 1871-2. Mr. Parsons had three accounts, one on the pharmacy ledger, page 46, of $27.95; on page 367 on the qualitative ledger, of $4.95; on page 155 of the same ledger, of $27.05, of which $15 had been paid. Dr. Douglas collected this money and reported it; but he failed to balance the ledger; and if he had forgotten to report it, as he did in the case of Pomeroy, it would have been a debtor balance against Mr. Parsons. He also received on the account of one Isgrig $47.80, which was a sub-payment on forfeited accounts; and in his testimony, Feb. 24, page 7, he testifies that there will be found quite a number of tickets like Isgrig's reported. There is no entry of cash upon the ledger, but simply a statement "Paid S. H. D.;" and he also reports the same in his annual report for 1868-9.

Dr. Douglas testifies in one place that Rose wrongfully reported to him 28 forfeited accounts. Again, in another place he makes this report number 29; in still another 33; and the doctor's brother in his argument makes 36! which is an immensely fine growth for one report, the mean average of which is just 31½. If Dr. Rose did so report, it must have been in the year 1874-5, as there had been no forfeitures reported for six years previous, and as for this year the doctor has put in evidence a document marked "Exhibit E," what he claims to be a report of Dr. Rose for forfeitures for the year 1874-5. We have examined this report and find that with one exception the names are correctly reported as the forfeitures for that year. The forfeited accounts which Dr. Douglas puts in his original report for this same year, with the exception of the name of Granger, are not the names that appear upon the report of Dr. Rose. Now, certainly, if Dr. Douglas made a mistake of 27 names out of 28, he surely cannot lay the blame to Dr. Rose. Page 414 he testifies that the forfeitures average only 3½ per year, of which Dr. Rose has reported 1½. The truth is, your committee find that these accounts average nearly 13, a list of which, with the amounts received, is hereby appended.

Dr. Rose testifies that the stub-books were looked over by Douglas and himself every year for forfeitures, and in this statement we find he is corroborated by Douglas on pages 373-4, and that these were settled at their annual or final settlement for each year is but a rational conclusion, since until the close of the year they did not know but that the student might return and settle up his account or give up his certificate. Dr. Rose also testifies that this report marked "Exhibit E"—if "report" it may be called, as it is a mere list of names and the amount of forfeitures for that year—was made out at the request of Douglas on the 18th day of October, on the day this defalcation was discovered, and was the only one of the kind that he ever made out; and since no others have been produced, and the testimony of Dr. Douglas is so conflicting on this point, we are disposed to accept the one statement of Dr. Rose which Dr. Douglas corroborates, namely, that the usual custom was to look through the stub-books together for forfeitures.

Your committee, in view of all the testimony, and in view of the fact that Dr. Douglas held the money on this class of accounts, and further that there was no possible mercenary motive which could have influenced Dr. Rose to withhold the reporting of this class of accounts,—if it was part of his duties to report them,—in view of the fact that Dr. Douglas for six years did report them, and that after this defalcation was discovered he made such haste to report those which should have been reported years before; that he reported some accounts as forfeitures, the tickets of which are with the steward, we are forced to the solemn conviction that for those five years in which he did not report, he not only did withhold moneys belonging to this class of accounts, amounting to about $900, which should have been reported to the University, but he consciously withheld the same.

STUBLESS ACCOUNTS.

“Stubless accounts” are accounts in which the student never made a deposit, or never had a stub. In the testimony of Dr. Douglas at Ann Arbor, and in fact throughout all this investigation, with a single exception, he has endeavored to create the impression that stubless accounts were not, in any way, known to him, and that he was perfectly ignorant of their existence. As this is one of the important features of all this delinquency, we have endeavored to make a very thorough and searching investigation in regard to this class of accounts, and have come to the unanimous conclusion that not only was Dr. Douglas aware of the existence of such accounts, but we find in many instances where he has recognized them, where he has settled them himself, and has received the pay from Dr. Rose for this same kind of accounts. The way in which such accounts are created is this: A student from the literary department, or one who had taken some course in the analytical department, having settled up his business in that particular branch in which he was engaged, concludes to take another course; they having become acquainted with the student, knowing him to be perfectly reliable and responsible,—or, as Dr. Rose testifies, having become acquainted with him “as a merchant does with a good customer,”—he not having the money to make the customary deposit, and is permitted to go to work without making a deposit, or taking out a ticket. An account is commenced with him on the ledger; and when he has finished his work his account is settled up on the ledger.

That the Director of the laboratory, Dr. Douglas, has recognized such accounts and has received the pay for some of them, we give the following indisputable evidence: In the year 1864–5 we find the Director has reported the following names of students who had no tickets with the Steward, and Dr. Douglas in his testimony in this investigation has said that he believed that no tickets or vouchers had been lost. Again he states that he never received money without a voucher. Also there are upon the ledger evidences that some of those students never made any deposit of $10. The following are the names reported for that year: J. W. Hadley $10, M. C. Mendenhall $10, R. Aikman $10, T. M. Stewart $10, J. A. Brush $10, J. F. Aris $1.27.

In 1866–7 Dr. Douglas reports the following names without a voucher,—which are equivalent to stubless accounts: J. B. Frost $18.50, J. W. Heisinger $10, H. C. Kibbie $14.93, G. S. White $26.60. So much for stubless accounts, or accounts without a voucher, before Dr. Rose came into the laboratory.

In the year 1867–8, Dr. Douglas reports an item of $104.25. He has at one time claimed—and we can see no reason for the claim—that this $104.25 was for delinquent accounts in the years 1864–5 and 1865–6. At another time he swears that this $104.25 must be for forfeited accounts,—as it is entered in his laboratory book in two items as forfeited accounts,—one of $90 and the other of $14.25; and when the question was asked if odd cents or odd dollars were ever given for forfeited certificates,—he being aware that it was an utter impossibility for such an account to exist, suggested that the $14.25 might be an apparatus account. Now, since the entry was made in the wrong manner in the book, in regard to the $14.25 of this account, and since his suggestion harmonizes with the account that Dr. Rose gives for this amount of $14.25, we are led to believe that this book is further in error, and that the $90 entry which goes to make up the $104.25 reported for this year, is just what Dr. Rose claims it is, and what his memorandum book kept for that year, in which there appears a $14.20 apparatus account, $60 forfeited accounts, and $30.05 stubless accounts, shows it to be. If this is not a fact, figures seem to tell that for which they were never intended.

In 1868–9 Dr. Douglas reports an item as “sundries, $66.19,” also entered upon his laboratory book for the same year. It is a wonderful coincidence, your committee believe, that this account should exactly fit the apparatus account and also the stubless accounts for that year, consisting of Boehme $14.20, Jarvis $5.85, and Goldsberry $26.80, which we find Dr. Rose has also entered upon his diary kept for that year, which bears every evidence that the accounts were entered at the time the settlement took place with Dr. Douglas.

Again, in the year 1867–8, page 92 on the ledger of that year, appears the account of E. J. Weeks, a stubless account, marked on the ledger “settled with Dr. Douglass.” In the beginning of this examination we did not pay that attention to this account that we otherwise would, as the words “settled by Dr. Douglas” are in the handwriting of Dr. Rose; but in the investigation of the University warrant voucher account we found that the settlement did actually take place, and that Mr. Weeks, at the time he created this account, was assistant in the laboratory, and was paid each quarter $40 for his services; that on the second day of June he was paid his quarter’s salary, namely, $34.20, in a bank check for that amount, which, together with this stubless account of $5.80—said to be settled by Dr. Douglas—is the total amount due the said Weeks at that time, and for which he gave his receipt, which receipt Dr. Douglas turned over to the University as a voucher for his assistant account; and we also find the check for $34.20—on what business principles we know not—in the hands of the steward as a voucher for assistant account. We see the check for $34.20, and the stubless account of $5.80 which Dr. Rose says was settled by Dr. Douglas, is the full amount for which this $40 receipt was given, which bears the same date and was the full amount due Mr. Weeks for that quarter.

In the year 1868–9 Dr. Rose was paid by draft from one John F. Oakes. This draft was turned over by Dr. Rose to Dr. Douglas, but was never reported by Dr. Douglas; but in the following year Dr. Douglas charges up the University this same draft as protested. By this adroit movement it will be plainly seen that the University has not only lost the money which it should have received from Mr. Oakes, but has paid Dr. Douglas $25 because the draft was protested. Nor is this all. The doctor testifies that he took every means in his power to collect this money, and in after years he did collect nearly or quite all of it; and as we find no place where the doctor has accounted for this, we are forced to accept the conclusion that the doctor, from the University and Mr. Oakes together, has received $50, which is just the amount the University has lost by the non-payment of the Oakes account, and the payment of the doctor because he could not collect the draft, and this account of John F. Oakes was a stubless account. Now, if Dr. Rose had paid this account in currency, which was usually his custom, we must believe that this would have been a delinquent account against Dr. Rose to-day, as it is at present unaccounted for by Douglas to the University.

From these facts, together with what has been said of the accounts of Pantlind, Thomas, and Hubbard in the fore part of this report, we can arrive at but one conclusion: that not only were stubless accounts a part of the recognized system of the business of the laboratory, but originated before Dr. Rose entered the laboratory, and also were known to and recognized by the Director of the laboratory from the time Dr. Rose entered until this defalcation was discovered; and the same class of accounts exist there to-day. Surely the Fates in these instances have not been favorably disposed to the theory that there were no stubless accounts recognized by Dr. Douglas.

It is claimed by Dr. Rose that these stubless accounts were always settled up at the close of each year, or at what he terms an "annual" or "final settlement;" and that there was such a thing as a final settlement there is no doubt, as Dr. Douglas in his testimony speaks of a final settlement of June, 1873-4; and the stub-books and all the evidence go to show that there were final settlements, as Dr. Rose claims; and Dr. Rose also claims that these accounts nearly all occur at the end of the year, and that most of them are settled by the students in June; and in this statement he is borne out, your committee find, by the settlement of these accounts upon the ledger; and this being the case of necessity, if they were settled at all, they would come into the final settlement in June. And these statements of Dr. Rose are further corroborated by the cases to which we have alluded, of these stubless accounts being settled by Dr. Douglas, for we find that they were all adjusted in the final settlements of the year.

It is also claimed by Dr. Rose that for the last three years covered by this investigation he has positive proof that these stubless accounts were included in the final settlements, namely, for the years 1872-3, 1873-4, and 1874-5; and your committee believe that the evidence adduced before it bears him out in the statement; and there has been no evidence produced in the least to the contrary, except for the year 1873-4. Dr. Rose has given all the dates of the settlements for these three years, and also the dates of final settlement. The dates of none of these settlements are disputed by Dr. Douglas, except for June 13 and June 19 of the year 1873-4.

Now, your committee have found that when the dates of settlement are given, and the time which the settlement covers, it is very easily determined what must of necessity go to make up or compose each settlement. The stub-books will show how many certificates have been issued and the amount of deposit money due from Dr. Rose during that time; and an examination of the ledger or certificates would show how many students had settled with Dr. Rose during that time, and how many tickets were in his hands to be accounted for by him. The date of every such settlement has been given for these three years, and Dr. Rose is corroborated in his statement by settlement marks that occur upon the stub-books, which Douglas admits to have been made for this purpose; and they are further corroborated in the year 1874-5 by bank checks for all but two, and they agree in date with the settlement marks on the stub-books; and in further corroboration these dates of settlement are also stated by Douglas to have been such by the receipts given under his own hand and signature on Rose's "long book;" and further, the settlement of June 13, 1874, for the year 1873—4, which the doctor has endeavored to put out of existence and denied, in what seems a Providential manner is further corroborated by the following :

A settlement took place the 2d day of April, and all the stubs of that settlement are receipted for with the initial D in pencil. All of the tickets on wrapper No. 9, as shown by the ledger and the back of the ticket, were settled by the student on the 2d day of April or previous to that date, and must have entered into that settlement. Stub No. 230, which follows the last stub signed with the D in pencil on the 2d day of April settlement, is written in ink. On this stub is the cross of settlement; also in Dr. Douglas' handwriting in brackets "13th J." This settlement included the balance of deposit money for that year receipted for by the letter D in ink,—all of which certificates were issued before the 13th day of June. The only remaining ticket in that year's business is an apparatus ticket for $206.23, issued June 26th, the date of final settlement, and which was settled on that day, as claimed by both Douglas and Rose, which is this time initialed in pencil.

Now, at this June 13th settlement, besides the deposit money, $195, there were in the hands of Dr. Rose all the tickets embraced in wrappers No. 3, 4, and 5, and two loose tickets, which upon the ledger and upon the back of the tickets, show that they were settled by the students with Dr. Rose before June 13,—and therefore, according to the way of doing business in these settlements, must be embraced in this June 13 settlement. The records fully show that this settlement took place as stated by Dr. Rose.

That there was a settlement June 19 of this year, as claimed by Dr. Rose, is not shown by the stub-books, as there were no tickets issued after June 13, on which the settlement mark or cross could have been placed; but there are other circumstances and evidences which lead us to believe that he has stated the truth in regard to this settlement, and that it did take place as stated by him. Dr. Rose testifies that these settlements did take place always preceding the June meeting of the Board of Regents, in order that Dr. Douglas might make his annual report to the Board for the year.

Dr. Rose testifies that Dr. Douglas did come, as had been his custom for eight years previous, to make the final settlement; but owing to the fact that there was a large number of unsettled accounts still outstanding, as shown by wrapper No. 11; which were settled between that date and June 26, the date of the final settlement of the year, he claims that the final settlement was deferred and a settlement made for what he did have in his hands, that is wrapper No. 1. The tickets in this wrapper seem to confirm this, as the last ticket settled as enumerated by this wrapper was settled on June 18. An examination of the records shows that Dr. Douglas did not hand in his report at the June meeting of the Regents, as had been his custom of previous years; and we can see no valid reason why this report was not handed in at the customary time unless on account of their not having had a final settlement, which further corroborates the testimony of Dr. Rose why the final settlement was not made at that time.

Another and more conclusive reason why this settlement must have been as stated by Dr. Rose is this: Dr. Rose testifies that these final settlements embraced, first, all the tickets which would show by their dates of settlement to have been in his hands at such a time; second, all the stubless accounts occurring during that year which had been settled up to this date; and third, all the sub-payments on forfeited accounts which had occurred up to this time. The amount of these regular tickets as given by Dr. Rose, together with the stubless accounts and sub-payments on forfeits, amount to $1,290.18. The check for the payment of this amount on the National Bank at Ann Arbor was $1,290.

Your committee find an error in the accounts given by Dr. Rose which go to make up this $1,290.18, of $19.75; and Mr. Tregaskis also makes this error, and reports it as a delinquent account for that year, instead of 1874-5; and when we take into consideration that Dr. Douglas fails to make any reasonable statement of the accounts which go to make the amount for which this check was given, as we will hereinafter show, and that in all the accounting for moneys in his hands this is the only mistake made by Dr. Rose which your committee are able to find, we can but believe that his accounting is as correct as could have been expected, after the lapse of several years, when he has once accounted for all moneys in his hands to the one to whom he was held responsible, and with no vouchers left for his defense only what seems providential.

In all the former investigations, Dr. Douglas has claimed that those wrappers for the year 1873-4 were 12 distinct settlements, and in this investigation he has positively sworn that the wrappers represented 12 distinct settlements, and not until confronted with this $1,290 bank check, has he in any way changed in the least his testimony in regard to these settlements; but this was a new phase of the affair, and as there was no wrapper in all of those years that represented moneys amounting to anywhere near this amount, there must be a new theory adopted, and the old line surrendered or deserted. So Dr. Douglas, with as much case as could have been imagined, adopted the new theory that four wrappers and one apparatus voucher went to make up this settlement for which this $1,290 check was given.

Let us see whether this theory is any more tenable than the first. He testified that wrapper No. 1 was settled in February, when in fact the students represented on this wrapper, as the tickets and the ledger show, had not settled with Dr. Rose until between June 13 and 19 following. Now, that wrappers No. 1, 3, 4, and 11 (as numbered on the wrapper, and the numbering used throughout all this investigation) could not all, together with the apparatus ticket of $206.23, make up this amount of $1,290, we give the following reasons: First, that the period of time that this statement covers is something like three months when Rose and Douglas both testified that the settlements occurred about once a month; second, he has left out $195 deposit money which the stub-book shows was received during that time; and third, he has left out wrapper No. 5 entirely, with 27 tickets, amounting to $361.90,—all settled by the students with Dr. Rose during this period; and as Dr. Douglas swears that there was no settlement from April 2 until June 26, the final settlement, we, accepting the Doctor's version of the settlement of this period, ask, Where was this package of 27 tickets contained in wrapper No. 5 reported? They could never have been accounted for to the University, which is an utter impossibility, as these tickets are with the steward and have been duly settled; fourth, and also for the reason that the books did show that there was a settlement June 13, which is denied by Dr. Douglas.

The evidence is very plain, your committee believe, that Dr. Rose has reported this stubless money for these three years,—1872-3, 1873-4, and 1874-5, amounting to $1,134.50, and that the same was actually paid to Dr. Douglas; and that all the evidence goes to show that there were final settlements at the end of each year, in which these stubless accounts were settled for as between Dr. Rose and Dr. Douglas; and when we take into account the testimony that wherever bank checks or drafts appear they are sure to reveal that stubless accounts have been reported by Dr. Rose, we are confidently of the opinion that Dr. Douglas has received the money for this class of accounts when they were paid in currency; and that he has held this money all these years unconsciously we cannot believe.

TESTIMONY.

In all the testimony taken in this case it will be very evident to any one reviewing the same that there is a vast amount irrelevant, and we did not see how we could avoid it, as when we commenced this investigation we were perfectly ignorant of the manner of doing business in the laboratory, and we had for a time to grope in the dark for facts. Your committee believed that the truth should be disclosed, and we have therefore given the broadest latitude in order that no one should have reason to complain because we would not receive testimony.

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS AND CONFLICTING TESTIMONY.

We have endeavored to weigh all this evidence and pay that regard to it that it seemed to demand of us. We have found some of the witnesses swearing to one thing to-day and another to-morrow. Some testimony was so utterly inconsistent with the books and reports that we found it utterly impossible to give any credence whatever to it.

For instance, Dr. Douglas testifies (page 5 of his testimony) that all the accounts during Lewis' time had been properly reported to the Regents, when, on the other hand, Climie, Briggs, Tregaskis, and the books all show a delinquency of about $60.

He testifies, on page 29, that he did not know of any account without a stub. This was a new development. He afterwards testifies (page 334) that there were such accounts in all those years, and the records show where he has settled these accounts himself.

In the June-7th testimony, on the last page, he stated that the D's were cut out by the first committee. On page 304 of the present testimony he swears, "We cut them out." The next day he corrected it, stating that he cut them out. On pages 260 and 270 he testifies that bargains for commissions were made with the Board of Regents, page 69 with the finance committee, and page 34 with Gilbert. All of the Regents testify that they knew of no bargains being made beforehand.

Page 69, he states that the reason why his book shows $238.15, and his report $288.13, was because the finance committee probably altered that item in his report. We can hardly see why, with their known generosity, they could have been so kind.

Page 361, he states that no money passed between him and Rose without a voucher; yet the records show hundreds of dollars so reported.

Pages 322 and 383, he states that he never was alone with the books for a moment. In this he is refuted by Bennett, George, Briggs, and Tregaskis.

Page 387, he testifies that he had no knowledge of the sub-payment stub-book. He afterwards acknowledges that he got them printed, and that he gave Miss Crane instruction in the keeping of the accounts; and we find his name in his own hand upon the book.

Page 413, he says Rose never reported or paid to him any sub-payments on forfeited accounts, and he never knew of any such payments. Such accounts are upon his report for the first six years.

Page 20, he stated that Rose reported to him 29 forfeitures amounting to $208, in July, 1874, "after I had made my annual report." The records show that this report was not made until October, 1874. Why not include them when he did make the report? He says: "They were credited on my book in July, 1874; there is the original entry, and it was made in July or during vacation. I had made my annual report for that year. They had nothing to do with the defalcation." He had not made his report, and the next day, when his attention was called to it, he said it was entered in November. Then in July, then in November!

Page 277, he swears that wrapper No. 1 was settled Feb. 27, and then, page 407, swears that No. 1 was included in the final settlement in June.

Page 276, he swears that the wrappers for 1873-4 are 12 distinct settlements, and afterwards, page 343, combines 5 of them in one settlement and swears to it!

The foregoing are only a few of the instances where we find that Dr. Douglas has testified in contradiction of himself, or other witnesses, or of the records introduced before this committee as evidence.

In no place in the evidence of Dr. Rose do we detect any conflicting testimony, either with himself or the records, excepting the error of $19.75, which went to make up the bank check. His testimony does conflict with statements that he had previously signed. So do the stub-books, records, and reports of Dr. Douglas. Rose's testimony is borne out by the records; and we are, therefore, disposed to believe that the statements then made, and the conduct of Dr. Rose at the time of the discovery of this defalcation, was nothing more than the weakness of a man who supposed that he was in the power of his enemies, and who had never taken but always given vouchers, except the D and the red line, if they may be considered vouchers. We none of us know what we would have done under similar circumstances. We cannot believe that there is money in his hands, unless by the very few mistakes which have been shown in his book-keeping, which work the accountants and your committee believe shows as few mistakes as the average, or even fewer.

UNIVERSITY "SCRATCH BOOK."

Dr. Douglas in his testimony has based a great share of the credibility of what he has stated upon what he has termed the "University scratch-book," and a report of this investigation would be incomplete without a review of this very important book. As the doctor has at various times based his statements upon the contents of this book, we have taken it into very careful consideration, and have noted what is claimed for it, and whether it is a book of "original entries," as the doctor has repeatedly sworn that it was.

Page 188, Dr. Douglas swears that the entries on this book were made when he received the money. Nowhere within the book do we find the money represented by the checks.

Page 188, again, he says the book is a rough one, and does not purport to be correct.

Page 225, he says the entries were made at the time they were dated. Then how could the dates be reversed in many instances?

Page 320, he says every account was kept in the scratch-book except stub accounts. We do not find the laboratory assistant account in full.

Page 346, he says his annual reports are supposed to be duplicates from his scratch book. If so, we cannot see why they should not show that part of the assistant account which appears on the book.

Page 365, he says he don't know whether this book will show the dates of settlement. It should do so if the moneys were entered on the date of the settlement.

Page 366, he says that he is unable to give exact dates by this book.

Page 369, he says he does not keep dates very carefully in the scratch book, and could not identify settlements without considerable trouble. Then it would not be safe to rely on it for dates.

Pages 439—40, he says the $50 entry was made at the time of the transaction with the Ann Arbor union school. Afterwards he stated that this whole account was entered on the scratch book when he made his report. The report was made some two years afterwards. And we find that the whole list of the accounts and the entries of figures with the Ann Arbor union school are in ink, while the $50 is in pencil, and the whole account foots up just $50 less than it should; and we find no place where Dr. Douglas has accounted for this $50, and therefore it should be charged to him.

Page B 412, he says that the 12 packages were taken immediately from Rose to his house and entered upon this book. If this was the case, we cannot see why the packages should be reversed and the apparatus ticket of $206.23 entered first of all when it was the last account settled in that year.

In several places in this book your committee find that entries have been changed to suit, or in order to make debits and credits balance. It is frequently in the entry of commissions that this occurs.

We also find that up to 1859 this book, while it has many erasures and errors, bears evidence of age and of having been used for some such purpose as is claimed, as it is all written in ink, and the different shadings of the ink show that the entries were made at different times. After 1858 there is a sameness to the work which could not appear in an original-entry book,—no change in the handwriting; whereas Dr. Douglas swears that his hand has changed in several years. All, or nearly all, comparatively, is written in pencil. In many cases the dates are reversed, and in several the years are reversed; as, for instance, on page 135 of the book there are two entries made June 15, 1864, in the midst of the July entries for the year 1859.

But it is an impossibility to give a tithe of the inaccuracies that are found in this work; and as your committee find that entries are made in it only up to about the time which this defalcation covers, we are mindful that it might have been made up for this occasion, and in such haste that the mistakes occurring were of a necessity the case; and since Rynd, Climie, and Tregaskis testify that he had claimed to them that he had not even the scratch of a pen which would throw further light upon this defalcation, we are reminded that our suppositions might be correct; and we find it perfectly unreliable as to dates, and do not believe that it is worthy of any consideration as a book of original entry.

Your committee have also carefully examined all the vouchers of the chemical laboratory to which they have had access, and have classified and tabulated them sufficiently to show the expenditures of each year from 1863 to 1876, and for what purposes made. A summary of these disbursements are appended to this report, and will be found marked "Exhibit A."

Another statement annexed to this report shows the amount of commissions charged by Dr. Douglas for the period of twenty-four years, from 1851 to 1876, and is marked "Exhibit B."

A third statement is also appended to this report, containing a tabulated statement, entitled "Errors and erroneous charges in Dr. Douglas' reports," designated as "Exhibit C."

"Exhibit A" will certainly furnish food for thought, and present some features which seem to have hardly received the examination which their singularity invited.

After patiently investigating this whole matter for more than two months, we are somewhat prepared to see errors in the reports of the Director of the Chemical Laboratory amounting to $1,458.67 in his favor and against the University, as shown in "Exhibit C."

It will also strike one as very singular, that the sum of $3,672.13 has been paid to Dr. Douglas or taken by him as commissions without, as far as the records show, having made any previous contracts, or in some instances without any auditing of his accounts. "Exhibit B" shows this amount.

SUMMARY.

In presenting a summary of the conclusions to which we have come, your committee are painfully conscious that they assume a position in this unhappy controversy that will provoke unfavorable criticism and obloquy; but having attempted to fathom the subject and disclose the facts in regard to it, we do not hesitate to state our convictions and to assume all the responsibility involved in such statement.

We find in our judgment that the financial affairs of the University were managed in a very unsystematic manner until recently, and even now need some improvements.

We find that the manner in which the business of the chemical laboratory was conducted was faulty and irregular to a surprising degree.

Nor can we withhold the opinion that the Board of Regents were derelict in the important obligation of carefully watching over its affairs and guarding it from fraud.

They allowed expenses to be incurred unreasonably large in many instances, and expenditures in other instances utterly preposterous and uncalled for.

They permitted dictation and control almost beyond belief.

They allowed interest on money which could never have been advanced as claimed by the Director, the laboratory having always been in funds.

Why interest was ever allowed seems a profound mystery.

They allowed the Director to deceive the students by pretending to sell chemicals and apparatus to them at New York prices, while an inspection of the ledger shows an enormous advance on such prices.

It was assumed that the laboratory was profitable and yielded a large income to the University without foundation in fact.

The accounts rendered by the Director are found to be not merely faulty, but incorrect to the extent of thousands of dollars.

It is utterly impossible to tell whether the defalcation traced by these investigations is the only one that has occurred. The tables herewith presented in Appendices A, B, and C are highly suggestive of others, to say the least.

Your committee have endeavored to trace the deficit in the Chemical Laboratory to the responsible parties, and with the aid of accountant Tregaskis, assisted by the work of others, we reach the following: The defalcation, as determined by the books and papers in this case, is $5,797.17, to which should be added the accounts of Wells and Grant, of $30.65, which was paid to Rose and never entered upon the ledger, making $5,827.82.

Of this amount $3,349.73 is made up of missing tickets and certificates having a corresponding stub, with a red line and letter D certified by Dr. Douglas to have been paid to him. The remaining part of this defalcation is $2,478.09.

Of this we are able to trace to our satisfaction $1,998.79 to the same hands. The balance of $479.30 is traced to the hands of Dr. Rose.

Beyond that the evidence is cloudy and conflicting. It is claimed by Rose that this sum coming into his hands during a period of eight years was paid to the Director in the following manner:

1. By accounting to the Director for moneys received from students after his annual reports were written, and which he never reported.

2. By reporting to and paying over to the Director accounts which had been settled on the ledger, but which had been overlooked till the close of the year.

3. By paying in currency during two years, and not bank checks, thus having no means of showing the amounts paid.

That these claims of Rose have great plausibility and many facts also to confirm them, is plain. The testimony of Rose, corroborated as it is, by the transactions during the years in which the bank checks were used, and showing that the accountings of Rose to the Director were correct, must certainly have great weight.

No effort was made by Dr. Rose to explain away his responsibility in the accounts of Wells and Grant except by explaining that these accounts were paid at his house in connection with a board bill, and must inadvertently have been omitted in the proper accounting next made as well as from the ledger.

The frank manner in which Rose gave his testimony, apparently seeking to cover up nothing, powerfully commends his statements to our fullest credence.

On the other hand the vacillating, disingenuous manner of Dr. Douglas, his shameless contradictions and prevarications, as well as his contradictions of proven facts, excited in us no little pity and shame.

We now submit the testimony in this case, and leave to this Legislature and the people what to us has proved a source of great anxiety, care, and labor.

In conclusion, we may be allowed to express the firm conviction that this unhappy affair will be properly treated by those who have the care and management of the University in time to come, and that, taught by this unfortunate experience, they will exercise all needful vigilance in the future.

We also firmly trust that when the present excitement shall have passed away and this matter shall be fully adjusted, the people of Michigan will feel no less regard for an institution which in one generation has risen to an influence so commanding, which has done so much for the honor of our young and noble State, and which we believe will still go on in its grand and noble work of giving the broadest culture, the noblest enterprise and the richest benedictions to many whom it may attract to its instruction.

Your committee, without making any recommendation, submit this report, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

During the last three days I have been unavoidably absent from the Capitol, and in my absence a large portion of the foregoing report has been put in form and written out by the other members of the joint committee. On my return last evening the report was being read by the chairman of the House committee to the House of Representatives. I therefore had no opportunity to examine the report before it was read, but the facts and data upon which it is founded, we have been carefully considering for weeks, and I concur in the conclusions generally of the committee, and in that portion inculcating Dr. Douglas, but I do not see my way to so nearly exonerating Dr. Rose as the other members of the committee.

WM. McARTHUR.

A P P E N D I X .

All of the debit vouchers from 1863 to 1876 have been examined, and a tabulated statement of the same is prepared showing the expenditures for each year for chemicals, freight, interest, expenses to New York and elsewhere, for sundries, and for permanent improvements, as far as could be determined by the vouchers. [See Exhibit A.] A large item of expenditures, commencing back at 1851, is only partly included in that statement, for the reason that the bulk of it is found only in special reports. We refer to the commissions charged by Dr. Douglas for superintending buildings, water works, and steam heating, and the purchase of chemicals and apparatus. It will be observed that 10% was paid for commissions on one building, 8% on steam heating and water, and 5% on other work, all very extravagantly high rates, even higher than competent mechanics could be employed for. [See Exhibit B.]

The items of errors in the annual statements are also presented in Exhibit C.

The laboratory is claimed by parties in their testimony to be profitable. An examination of the facts and figures prove that it was an annual expense to the University instead, when the salaries paid to professors and assistants is taken into the account. It is true that it should have been self-sustaining if the proper care and economy had been observed. The profit upon chemicals has been large, and should have paid for all necessary improvements, and for all necessary instruction in that department. It appears that the prices paid for chemicals and apparatus were excessive. That money was used in going to New York,—generally unnecessarily. The amounts charged for expenses to New York, if authorized and correct, should not have occurred oftener than once in three or four years, and should never have exceeded $60 for any one trip. It also appears that articles were purchased not absolutely needed, and in excessive quantities, and that the stock carried is out of all proportion to the amount of sales.

It is testified that the inventory shows $8,000 of chemicals and apparatus on hand, kept for sales which amount to only $2,000 on the average, at first cost. A prudent expenditure would have left no excuses for charges of interest occurring almost yearly on the Director's reports. To make such charges appear plausible, the items of payments are frequently under erroneous dates. We notice bill charged as paid July 1, was receipted Aug. 10; payment charged Aug. 1, was receipted Oct. 10th,—which are only two of a number charged and dated in that way in years where excessive interest is charged. An examination of the accounts proves that the Director was always in funds for laboratory account, and should never have charged interest. We notice the same charges for interest and for expenses to New York, prior to 1863, but not in as large amounts. We give the table below, Exhibit D, as an approximation, to the cost of the laboratory. It will be borne in mind that professors and teachers were always paid by warrants from the general fund.

By the committee on the judiciary :

The committee on the judiciary, to whom was referred Senate bill No. 151, entitled

A bill relative to the salary of county clerks,

Respectfully report that after careful a consideration of the subject they have come to the following conclusions :

First, That a salary fixed by the board of supervisors and paid by the county would render the work of the county clerk's office much greater and require more assistance for clerks, and in many cases additional deputies. And as the clerks have less personal interest in the collection of the fees, that they would make less effort, and a comparatively small portion of the fees would be collected. That the work of the county treasurer would be greatly increased, and though the fees would be large in the aggregate, would each be so small that the cost of collecting them by litigation would be very great.

Second, That this proposed change would result in a benefit to dishonest litigants and irresponsible attorneys.

Third, That it would be detrimental to the counties of the State, with but few exceptions. Your committee on careful inquiry find that the proportion of fees now collected by the different counties is only about two-thirds the amount due, and your committee is of the opinion that not more than one-half would be collected should the law be changed as contemplated in this bill.

When the fees are too large they may be reduced, or if the supervisors are satisfied that the clerk of any county is getting too much from his office, they may cut down the salary paid by the county. For these, with other reasons, your committee are of opinion that the people would not on the whole be benefited by the change proposed.

Your committee, therefore, report the bill back to the Senate, with the recommendation that it do not pass, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

PORTER K. PERRIN, Chairman.

Mr. Nelson moved that the further consideration of the bill be indefinitely

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Redfield presented an address delivered in the House of Representatives of this State, March 4, 1865, by Hon. E. G. Morton, of Monroe, and moved that it be printed in the journal, supporting the motion by the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT:—The immediate needs of the educational, charitable, and penal institutions of the State now pending—in view of the present financial condition of our State and country,—involve serious and anxious consideration. After much and careful reflection and inquiry, I am fully convinced that this Legislature will be endorsed and sustained by the people just in the ratio in which they meet the wants of these various "wards of the State" justly and generously. Twelve years ago, when we had emerged from the heat, and smoke, and cost of war,—when State and national debt seemed insurmountable,—and the Legislature of that year were calculating how to retrench and economize the expenses of these institutions, a member of the other house, who to that time and since has for nearly a quarter of a century represented the county of Monroe in the House and in this Senate,—a journalist of great ability for more than forty years,—an honored contemporary and successor of the Wings, the Nobles, of Felch, McClelland, Christiancy, and Grosvenor, of the old city I have the honor to call my home, in a short but impromptu appeal of great force and impassioned fervor and broad christian sympathy, arrested the parsimonious spirit of that day; and now, that eloquent effort is remembered as one of the brightest and best of the many good things that mark the public life of the late Hon. Edward G. Morton.

Believing that the sentiment of that speech has present interest, and can be read and remembered with benefit to ourselves, and profit to the schools and asylums of the State; that it teaches anew that in the sum and substance of all human endeavors “the greatest of all these is charity,” I move that the speech be printed in the Journal of the Senate;

Which motion prevailed.

The following is the address:

MR. CHAIRMAN: The Asylums of Michigan have more than ordinary claims to the favorable consideration of the Legislature. Their inmates, while living in the world, are shut out of it by calamity and misfortune. They are not noisy here in their importunities, like those who throng these halls for money, lands and public property, in their eagerness for gain. The deaf do not hear and are scarcely heard, for they live in a little world of their own. The dumb are mute. The blind do not see their way to this capitol in the wilderness. The insane, with shattered minds, are too absorbed in their wild imaginations, startling fancies and horrid delusions, to seek or care for our aid and protection. No, sir, they have no interested lobbies here to present their claims, and God knows they should never need them. And yet they speak to us in language that moves the soul in their behalf, through Him who opened the eyes of the blind, caused the dumb to speak, and cast out the evil spirits. And if the deaf, the dumb and blind challenge our sympathy and aid, and we all believe they do, the insane have even more pressing and peculiar claims upon us. If they are not deaf, the sweetest melody may be frightful discord to them, and the sound of a friendly voice may startle them with alarm. If they are not dumb, their speech is not the speech of sanity. If they are not blind, they see not with a sane vision. The glorious sunlight of Heaven is often delusion to them, and the most pleasing sights may be to them alarming spectres.

Indeed, sir, the insane are deaf, and dumb and blind, while they hear, and speak and see—for reason is dethroned. The mind, the soul, the God-like and God-given monarch to direct and govern man in this world of life, is wrecked, and like wrecks on the great deep without chart, compass or rudder, is driven, now in frantic madness, as if by a furious tornado, and now mute and calm, while wrapt in visions and fancies as unreal as the whims of delirium.

Insanity, sir, deranges the mind as volcanic forces do the geological strata of the earth, into a confused mass of ruins; and as the mind is more important than the body, so the calamity which impairs or destroys it, is greater than that which affects or destroys merely the sense of hearing and seeing, and the power of speech.

And now while war and suffering are adding fearfully to the number of the insane, as legislators we should prepare a home for their care and protection. This is peculiarly necessary in their case, if a cure is to be effected, as it is well known that restoration to reason—to real life and happiness—seldom occurs unless immediate relief is afforded. Their case then is more pressing, and is of that peculiar nature which forbids delay, or a parsimony that can with more justice be applied in providing for many other State institutions.

And now, sir, a few words in regard to the Asylum for the Insane, its capacity, situation, and wants; and the duty of supervisors or other local authorities who have the insane at their disposal.

The Asylum at this time contains some 180 patients, which is some fifty more than its rated capacity; and about twenty applications for admission are made every month. Such facts show us, at once, the necessity of enlarging the institution by the construction of the north wing, for which the appropriation is now asked, and which is absolutely necessary. Let this be completed, and the entire building will immediately be filled to its full capacity; and even then we should be prepared to erect another addition or building for those who are hopelessly insane, as all the patients will be best cared for by so doing, while not only their interests, but the wants of the State, will demand it. With the north wing completed, the building will be some 1,000 feet long. In view of its present magnitude, many persons imagine that it should afford accommodations for a larger number of patients. They do not understand that it is necessarily divided into wards, eight for males, and eight for females, and thus classified for different degrees of insanity; and that it is impossible, when a class is filled, to successfully treat a case which belongs to that class in another class or ward. A knowledge of this fact by persons applying for the admission of patients would save the institution from much unjust and undeserved censure. The design is, in time, to make the asylum a self-sustaining institution. This might be done now, if the indigent were excluded to make room for more wealthy applicants. But this would be against the humane policy of the State, as the wealthy have the means of access to other asylums, while in our State Asylum the poor have the preference at about one-third the expense which applicants of means would cheerfully give for admission.

Again, sir, in regard to the policy of county authorities who have the care of the insane. In some counties they have retained them from the Asylum as long as possible, even when there was room for their reception, to prevent them from becoming a county charge, as they do become when placed in the Asylum. Now, what is the result? They are retained, in many cases, until they become hopelessly insane, and then, when there is little or no hope of recovery, they are sent to the asylum to become a permanent charge upon their counties, when, had they been promptly provided for in the Asylum, a cure would have been almost certain, and the tax on the counties much less. It is, therefore, a short-sighted policy, even in a pecuniary point of view, to neglect the insane a moment after insanity commences; and to take no higher view of the subject, it will be short-sighted policy for this great State to withhold the necessary appropriation for enlarging the institution and its usefulness in the future. To vote it we shall save hundreds of the unfortunate to society, and the people from permanent taxation for their support. Wayne county, it is said, formerly pursued this policy, and retained her insane from the Asylum, much to her regret and detriment, as subsequent events demonstrated.

The history of asylums for the insane in this country, including our own at Kalamazoo, shows the encouraging fact that eighty to ninety out of every one hundred new cases, may be successfully treated and cured, if promptly attended to, while only twenty to twenty-five in a hundred are cured after unreasonable delay, and seldom, if ever cured, after the cases become chronic. These facts should be known throughout the State, that our authorities may act more intelligently and humanely in the future; and when known, the tax-payers of Michigan, instead of condemning us for making this appropriation, will condemn us if we withhold it.

There are periods in the history of our lives when we meet duties which require higher views and motives than the consideration of the mere dollars and dimes they involve. The case before us is of this character. Justice and humanity require us to meet it like men. It is our duty to sustain, liberally, all of our humane institutions, and more especially the Asylum for the Insane. It is a State institution. It belongs to the people. As legislators we should watch and guard this Asylum and its inmates, as a father cares for his home and family. To do so is to discharge a duty to our common humanity. An appropriation to sustain it is an appropriation to Almighty God. It is laying up treasures in Heaven.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The President announced the following:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Lansing, April 6, 1877. }

To the Senate:

A bill has been presented to me which originated in your house, and passed both houses of the Legislature, entitled "An act to reorganize the Eighteenth judicial circuit and create the Twenty-third judicial circuit," which I have not returned, but in accordance with a provision of the constitution, have suffered to become a law without my approval.

For some reason, of which I am not apprised, the proposed new circuit is designated as the Twenty-third, when in fact it should be the Twenty-second, there being at this time twenty-one circuits in the State exclusive of three special judges in cities whose courts are vested with powers similar to those of the circuit courts.

In adopting the course I have, I deem it fitting and proper that I should make known to the Legislature the special reasons for my proceeding in this regard, so that my action may not be misconstrued or taken to be in any wise the sanction of a policy which I do not approve.

In my communication made to you at the opening of the session I took occasion to express the opinion that the judicial circuits of the State ought to be reorganized, so as to secure a more equal division of the labor of the circuit judges. I was confident that while some judges had more work imposed upon them than they ought to do, others had less than should be required of them. To properly adjust these differences it seemed to me that some new arrangement of the judicial circuits should be at once made in such a manner as to afford the desired relief.

I was aware that the number of circuits could not be reduced until after the end of the term of office for which the present judges were elected, and I was likewise conscious that such circuits could not be re-arranged so as to affect the tenure of office of any of the judges. Still it appeared to me that a more equal adjustment than the present one might be made by detaching certain counties where the labor was great, and attaching them to others where there was less to do. I felt that this course would relieve the overworked judges and not increase circuits or multiply offices, for which there seemed no imperative necessity.

I am of the same opinion still, and all the facts and circumstances which I have been enabled to gather within the very brief time since this bill was presented to me for signature, have have only served to strengthen and confirm me in this view.

I am not alone in the conviction that we have already too many judicial circuits in the State, and that a reduction instead of an increase is desirable. One of the most experienced and able of the circuit judges has recently said: "I agree fully with those who believe that we have already too large a number of circuits, and if the State could be redistricted and a moderately reasonable compensation made to the circuit judges, I am satisfied that the number might properly be reduced." Another talented and accomplished circuit judge, speaking, as he says, from his own knowledge and advisedly of four circuits of the State, declares that "in none of them is the time of the judge occupied for more than one-half the year."

In his last message Gov. Bagley says: "Gentlemen who have lately filled the position of judge in some of our circuits have assured me that they could have transacted all the business with ease had the district been doubled."

If five circuit judges in 1850, when the population of the State was about one-third what it is now, when the facilities for traveling were not near as good as they are at present, when the business of the courts were not facilitated by stenographers and other means now in use, could do the entire judicial business of the circuit courts of the State, as well as all the business of the supreme court, it would seem as though twenty-four judges might easily accomplish the work of the circuits now, especially in view of the fact that the business of the supreme court is entirely divorced from the circuit judges. The records and calenders of the circuit courts are themselves evidence that all the work imposed upon the circuit judges might be done easily and without any hardship whatever if there was a proper adjustment and more equal division thereof.

While some of the counties have from three to four hundred cases at each term on the calendar, with from forty to fifty trials, other counties have less than thirty cases all told, and not more than from five to ten trials. And yet it appears in several instances that counties having such a large amount of business as I have stated are grouped together in one circuit, while on the other hand two or three counties, with the light amount of business I have instanced, are made into a circuit in which comparatively there is but little to do.

The same disparity exists in the circuits if population is taken into consideration. Some of them contain a population of over one hundred thousand persons, while others have less than twenty thousand; thus there is no approximation whatever to uniformity in the circuits in this respect. The population of the twenty-third circuit, created by this bill, as shown by the last census, is only 12,418. The eleventh circuit contains a population of only 15,624 persons, and I am advised that the business therein is extremely small, occupying only a portion of the time and attention of the judge. If the business of the eighteenth circuit has grown so large as to have become more than ought reasonably to be imposed upon a single judge, as I have reason upon a hurried investigation to believe it has, I apprehend that relief might have very properly been afforded by detaching the counties of Alpena, Alcona, Iosco, and Presque Isle, from the eighteenth circuit, and attaching them to the eleventh circuit. The eleventh circuit would then have contained a population of less than thirty thousand, and I apprehend not a greater amount of business than could be well performed by one judge. So likewise it has seemed to me that elsewhere in the State a re-arrangement might have been made in such a manner as to afford all the relief desired, without increasing the number of circuits, or creating an additional number of judges.

I am opposed to the further increase of judicial circuits, because I believe the tendency will be to lower, rather than to elevate, the character of the judiciary. This steady multiplication from year to year is fast turning our circuit into a county court system, with a judge at every man's door, the effect of which must be to greatly depreciate the standing and character of the tribunal in question. The more circuit judges we have, the stronger will be the temptation to litigious persons to originate suits in such courts, and the result will be that the business of the courts will be greatly increased. In trivial cases, more frequently than now, appeals will be taken from justices of the peace, and cases come up for rehearing and trial, involving small amounts, thus occupying the time of officers, jurors and witnesses, and adding largely to the ordinary expenses of these courts. The great number of petty suits that come up to the higher courts, has already become a crying evil, and so deeply was the constitutional commission of 1873 impressed with the necessity of some check in this respect, that it provided, by the constitution it submitted for adoption, that the appellate jurisdiction of the circuit courts should not extend to any civil case in which the amount or value of the thing in controversy was less than twenty-five dollars exclusive of costs.

Again, I may safely say it is a matter of common observation, that where the judge has much leisure time upon his hands, it is apt to lead to an indulgent management of business for the accommodation of the bar, and to the postponement of cases from day to day without real necessity, thus prolonging terms, increasing the time for the attendance of officers and jurors, without at the same time accomplishing any useful purpose, but leading lawyers to be careless in preparation, and to apply for new and further hearings, which a prompt method of dispatching business would have rendered wholly useless.

By this means the apparent business may be greatly increased, while the real demands of justice are no greater, and the law's delay justly becomes the subject of public complaint, because to a large extent unnecessary.

I also object to any further increase of the circuits, because I believe it will be a hindrance to the adoption of any measure that may hereafter be proposed for giving to the circuit judges a just and fair compensation for their services. I am satisfied that a reduction of circuits, and more reasonable and better salaries, are essential to maintain the character of the court, and preserve and secure to us judges of desirable talents and attainments. I do not believe this end can ever be reached, and I doubt whether it ought to be, if the number of judges are to be multiplied, and the whole system transformed into one closely allied to the county court plan, the most expensive and ill-adapted to the wants of the people of any that has ever been in operation in the State.

While therefore I thus earnestly deprecate the creation of new circuits, and should not hesitate under ordinary circumstances to interpose all the power of the Executive Department to prevent the continuance of a policy which I regard as tending to produce great injury to our judicial system, I am led to believe that there are special reasons in this case for such acquiescence on my part as shall leave with the Legislature the full responsibility of this act.

I am advised that the judge of the eighteenth circuit is overburdened with work, mainly owing to business accumulated in the county of Bay. The territory which constitutes his circuit is large, the principal points where the courts are held remote from each other, and the population rapidly increasing, so that the operations of the court are likely to be effectually blockaded unless provision is speedily made for its relief.

I am not aware that any bill has been introduced into either branch of the Legislature for detaching territory from this circuit and attaching it to others, or for such a general readjustment of the circuits of the State as seems to me to be required, and at this late period in the session there is no opportunity for the introduction of such bills, or, in my judgment, for a full understanding or discussion of a general measure, if one could be entertained, without unduly prolonging the present sitting of the Legislature.

It is, therefore, by this seeming necessity, with the further fact that I observe nothing in the act that contravenes the letter of the constitution, the question of additional circuits being simply one of policy upon which the Legislature may entertain one opinion and I another, that I am led to avoid taking any action now tending to the rejection of the measure.

I make this official explanation of my course in regard to this bill that it may be understood that I do not endorse the general policy of the measure, and am only reconciled to it because the necessity for it in this instance seems to be exceptional and extraordinary.

CHARLES M. CROSWELL.

The message was laid on the table.

A bill to repeal sections 4757 and 4758 of the compiled laws of 1871, relative to divorce ;

Also,

A bill to amend act number 82 of the session laws of 1873, approved April 15, 1873, by adding one new section thereto to stand as section 22, providing for the organization of mutual fire insurance companies to insure property in cities and villages exclusively ;

Respectfully report the same herewith, correctly enrolled, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

WM. JENNEY, JR., Chairman.

Report accepted and committee discharged.

By the committee on railroads :

The committee on railroads to whom was referred

Senate bill No. 133, entitled

A bill to amend the fifth and ninth clauses of section 9 of Article II. of act

No. 198 of the session laws of 1873, entitled "An act to revise the laws providing for the incorporation of railroad companies, and to regulate the running and management, and to fix the duties and liabilities of all railroads and other corporations owning or operating any railroad in this State," approved May 1, 1873,

With certain instructions,

Respectfully report that they have had the same under consideration, and have directed me to report the same back to the Senate, amended as instructed by the Senate.

The committee would further report that in their opinion the amendment should not be adopted by the Senate, as the compensation provided for the service required is entirely inadequate. Your committee have learned upon careful inquiry, that railroad companies make no difference in charges for hauling cars from other roads for distances under ten miles, but that a uniform charge of ten dollars per car is made for all distances under ten miles, which charge your committee do not believe to be unreasonable or exorbitant. Should the amendment reported be adopted, your committee would recommend the adoption of a further amendment to said section herewith submitted.

Your committee also herewith submit a further amendment to said bill, and recommend that the last named amendment be concurred in, and that the bill when amended as above recommended do pass, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

WITTER J. BAXTER, Chairman.

Report accepted and committee discharged.

Mr. Adair moved that the Senate concur in the amendments made to the bill by the committee.

Mr. Edsell moved to amend the amendment so as to read as follows:

"Provided further, That in the transportation of cars loaded with lumber, staves, shingles or other freight which is loaded by the shipper and unloaded by the consignee, no railroad company shall charge for transporting such cars more than five dollars for any distance not exceeding five miles, and not more than fifty cents for each additional mile; this proviso not to apply to the Upper Peninsula;

Which motion did not prevail.

The question then recurring on concurring in the above first named amendment,

Mr. Read called for the yeas and nays.

The amendment was not concurred in, by yeas and nays, as follows:

Railroad conductors are hereby invested with powers of sheriffs and constables in regard to offenses under this section occurring upon trains or cars in their charge, and are empowered to arrest and detain any person violating any of its provisions until the car or train shall arrive at some usual stopping place, where a sheriff, deputy, or under sheriff of any county, or constable, or marshal, or policeman of any city or village in this State may be, to whose custody he may deliver such offender with a written statement specifying generally in what respect such person has misbehaved; or if there be no such officer present to receive the offender, the conductor may deliver him to the ticket or freight agent at such stopping place, with such statement, who shall detain the offender in his custody (and may exercise the powers of sheriffs and constables in regard to persons charged with crimes in doing so) until such officer may be obtained to take charge of the offender, to whom he shall be delivered, with such statement made by the conductor, and such officer shall take the person so offending into custody, and it shall be his duty to institute complaint against such person for such offense before a justice of the peace in his county, and such justice shall have jurisdiction to try such offender, and to impose the judgment authorized by this section.

The same was concurred in.

Mr. Andrus moved to further amend the bill by adding to the ninth subdivision of recited section 10 the following proviso:

The message was laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Burleigh,

The Senate took a recess until two o'clock this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2 o'clock P. M.

The Senate met and was called to order by the President.

Roll called: a quorum present.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The President announced the following:

STATE OF MICHIGAN, }
EXECUTIVE OFFICE, }
Lansing, April 10, 1877. }

To the Legislature:

A recent opinion of the Supreme Court in the case of the People ex rel. Ralph Ely, Auditor General, vs. the Board of Supervisors of Monroe county, has been informally laid before me, which appears to be of so much importance in its bearings on our system for the adjustment of delinquent taxes that I have deemed it matter requiring immediate legislative consideration, and have therefore felt it my duty to especially direct your attention to it. The principal points of adjudication are that the provisions of the act of 1869 heretofore in force, known as the "five-year law," are not retroactive, and therefore cannot be so applied as to permit the charging back to the counties any deficiency that had occurred preceding the passage of that act, on lands known as State tax lands, growing out of a loss between the sum for which the lands were originally bid off to the State and the amount finally realized therefor, and that so far as that law is concerned in sales which had taken place before its passage, the State must look to the land itself without recourse to the counties for reimbursement for any such deficiency which may have arisen. I do not understand that the scope of the decision goes further than this, or that it in any wise denies the application of the law of 1869 to adjustments made subsequent to the passage thereof, and while such law was in force. Neither do I take it that the court assumes that the Legislature have not power to provide for an adjustment by the counties of deficiencies which may have heretofore or shall hereafter take place by reason of such sales.

The scope of the decision, as I understand it, is limited to this: that the law of '69 in question does not relate to antecedent sales, and that, so far as such sales are concerned, the Legislature, if it intended to apply it thereto, should have expressly so declared.

But the effect of this adjudication, confining its operations within the precise limits I have defined, without further action on the part of the Legislature, will be to unsettle all the adjustments heretofore made with the several counties under that law, amounting in the aggregate to the large sum of $225,615.61.

This whole amount has been charged back for taxes that had accrued previous to 1869, the authorities of the State acting upon the understanding that the law of 1869 authorized and provided for it. Now, if the State must reimburse counties for the sum thus charged back, it is plain to be seen it will have a burden imposed upon it which will at once weigh very heavily upon its finances. It seems to me, therefore, important that you speedily take some action that shall have the effect to prevent the continuance of such results. This, I apprehend, may be accomplished through either the re-enactment of the five-year law, or a law for a shorter term similar thereto, or the adoption of some means which shall leave the lands unsold on the sale books, and not credit the counties with the amount of the taxes until the same shall be collected, and thus save the State from the necessity hereafter of bidding off such lands, advancing the amount of taxes thereon, and holding them indefinitely without any prospect of realizing from them, as it is now obliged to do.

The accumulation of lands bid off to the State for taxes is already great and rapidly increasing, reaching in 1876 the enormous sum of $1,462,977.61, and the rapidity with which the amount is growing under the present system is shown in the fact that in October last the bids for taxes of 1875 to the State aggregated $377,596.07.

Now if the State is to bear this heavy load without any provision whatever for unloading, it becomes all important to inquire whether the lands thus forced upon it are of value sufficient to pay the taxes, and whether the title thus acquired by the State is of legal validity to enable it to maintain its lien upon the lands.

I understand that, in the case decided as well as in the total amount of these State tax land bids, a large proportion have been returned on account of extraordinary local assessments or drain taxes, where the amount of taxation was excessive, being nearly, if not quite, equal to the actual value of the land, and it is quite apparent that unless the "brakes" are speedily applied, in some direction, the State will have more ditches to pay for hereafter than it has heretofore. Many of these ditch tax lands, as well as most of the lands bid off by the State for other taxes, are abandoned and poor, many of them being almost worthless, and even if the title thus acquired were indisputable, it is doubtful whether the lands would ever bring near the amount of the taxes so imposed upon them. But the question of the validity of the titles is also an important one. It is a matter of common notoriety that in the great majority of tax cases which have arisen in this State the courts have held the tax titles worthless. Some of these decisions I believe to be based on a failure to comply with provisions in the tax laws that were really unnecessary and might have been omitted, and others from inharmonious provisions arising from the crude and hasty manner in which tax laws are often prepared.

This being the fact, the result would seem to be that the State is likely to carry a very heavy and constantly increasing amount of worthless assets, from year to year, without any remedy or means of ridding itself of the burden, and the consequence must inevitably be to materially affect its finances, and to impose upon the people at large the injustice of paying taxes for individuals and localities which properly and justly belong to certain localities to pay.

Besides I think it must be apparent that, under the operation of the system now in force, great temptation is held out to localities to value lands unfairly and unjustly, and to assess non-resident lands, barren lands, and stump lands at large sums, as well as to be careless and neglectful in the assessment and collection of taxes, as all the responsibility of caring for a deficiency is thrown upon the State, and no matter how large the tax may be upon poor lands, the locality realizes, in any event, its full share of the tax, leaving the State to make up the deficiency as best it can.

The whole subject seems to me to demonstrate the importance of taking early steps for a thorough revision of our tax system, as well as some provision for immediately preventing any further increase or accumulation of tax-lands of this character.

CHARLES M. CROSWELL.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Redfield offered the following resolution :

Resolved. That the decision of the Supreme Court referred to in the communications of the Auditor General and the Governor, this day transmitted to the Senate, be published in connection therewith in the Journal ;

Which was adopted.

The following is the opinion :

The People, ex rel. Ralph Ely, Auditor General, vs. The Board of Supervisors of Monroe county.

The Auditor General applies for a mandamus to compel the county of Monroe to raise a State tax to refund to the State a balance struck against the county, which included among other things a loss on State tax lands sold for less than their cost, and also the amount of certain taxes, the collection of which was stayed by injunction. These two principal items are contested, together with certain smaller sums of interest. It is claimed that the act of 1869, whereby provision was made for charging back to the county the losses on State tax bids, can not be allowed to justify the charges in this case, and that the enjoined taxes were not lawfully charged back.

Both of these questions involve an inquiry into the theory and practice of State taxation, and the relative positions of State and county to each other in their financial dealings.

With some trifling exceptions, all county liability to the State must arise from State taxes for State purposes. It is only because these taxes are collected through the same processes with the local charges, that any mutual debts and credits can arise. The State laws prescribe the methods of assessment and the extent and manner of levying all these charges, the practical work being mostly done by neither State nor county, but by township officers, who make the valuations and apportion to each taxpayer his share of the burdens which they are required to lay upon the property on the rolls. As the validity of all the taxes chiefly depends on the regularity of the action of these subordinate officers, it is usually the case that a regular assessment will sustain the State tax, and that an irregular one will defeat it. The counties being the only municipal bodies directly communicating with the State, the responsibility for regularity is chiefly laid upon them ; and irregularly laid taxes may in general, if set aside, be charged back to the counties for reassessment in some form. But where taxes have been regularly assessed and returned, the responsibility of the counties is fulfilled, and they are discharged from further duties. No county has any means of compelling redress against township officers whose action is regular in form, whether honestly or dishonestly performed ; and the reason for imposing any duty on the counties is not based on the idea that they are able to regulate matters, but upon somewhat arbitrary rules of convenience to the State.

As each tax-roll directs specifically what taxes are to be collected of each taxpayer for State, county, and local purposes, if all the persons charged were residents, and possessed of tangible property, no great complications would be likely, and the moneys would be speedily collected and paid over at once where they belong. But our laws are framed on the theory that a considerable number of taxpayers will not pay their taxes to the township collecting officer, and that both township and county, as well as State taxes, will have to be enforced by other agencies.

Assuming that all the taxes on every roll are presumptively of equal validity, the rule adopted has been to allow the town treasurer to retain the whole amount due to his office out of his collections, before requiring him to pay any money to the county treasurer; and in like manner to allow the county treasurer to retain enough to pay all county taxes before paying over any money to the State; so that when town and county taxes are thus satisfied, the whole balance belongs to the State and is enforced for the benefit of the State, although nominally including some State and township taxes in lieu of the same amount of State taxes collected and retained by township and county.

If the business has been regularly done, the taxes returned uncollected and the moneys paid over to the State at the proper return day will precisely balance the amount of State taxes laid against the county. If enough has not been collected to pay township and county taxes, then by the return the State becomes a debtor to the county for the deficiency, but the unpaid taxes all belong to the State. And in pursuance of this same theory, although returned taxes for State, county and town purposes are all charged with a high and uniform rate of interest, in the nature of a penalty for delay, only 10 per cent of this is allowed to the county for so much of the aggregate as is necessary to make good the county deficiency which the State is to assume, and all the rest belongs to the State. The county is charged with the State tax, and credited with all moneys paid by its treasurer, and all taxes returned unpaid. It has no further concern with, and no control over, any of the unpaid taxes on its own account; and if any of them are subsequently paid to the county treasurer, they belong to the State, and must be so accounted for.

There is but one case in which the county has any subsequent interest in the returned taxes. It is responsible to the State for their regularity, and in case any tax is found to be illegal, and set aside by the proper State authority in the manner pointed out by law, so that the State does not receive its amount, then it is charged back to the county as so much previously credited without consideration, and the county is bound to make it good.

Every dollar of taxes returned unpaid in due course of law, is a payment to the same extent of the debts due from the county to the State, and the law has always required annual statements and balances of accounts to be struck on this basis. Every tax legally set aside is charged as a new item of indebtedness; but until 1869 no provision was made for charging back any other items connected with taxes. The balances carried over from year to year, in accordance with this law, could only be charged to the extent of these specific deductions: for void taxes.

The tax sales have in all cases been regarded as interesting no one but the State; while usually made by the county treasurers, yet they make them under State authority; and unless they gave satisfactory bonds to the Auditor General the duties connected with the sales were performed by other persons employed by the Auditor General for that purpose. No funds could be received for bids, except such as were legally receivable at the State Treasury.

No county or county officer ever had authority to bid at the sales, or in any way to control them, except on behalf of the State. No parcel could be sold to a private bidder for less than the whole taxes and charges, and lands not purchased by private parties were required to be bid in for the State. Lands:

bid off by the State could be redeemed, like other lands, and if not redeemed were open to sale at the annual tax sales, and if not sold after five years they were no longer assessible until sold or discharged from the taxes.

In all these proceedings the State purchased and held in the same manner as individuals, and a State tax-bid transferred to a private purchaser was in his hands in all respects like a title bid off by himself originally. The tax was extinguished by the sale, and the title was good or bad according to its regularity.

In 1869 a statute was passed for revising the tax law, which contained in section 124 a direction that the lands remaining unsold for five years after they were bid off to the State should be sold for what they would bring, any excess over the amount charged against any parcel to be placed to the credit of the county in which such parcel of land may be situated; and if any parcel of land so offered shall be sold for less than the amount for which it was bid off to the State, then the proper county shall be charged with the difference between the sum for which such parcel was so sold and the amount for which it was originally bid off to the State; I., C. L., §1090. This section was repealed without any saving clause in 1875; L. 1875, p. 270.

It is claimed by relator that this section was retrospective, and the charges in controversy rest on that claim, which is disputed by the respondents, who also insist on its invalidity if so construed.

The statute of which the section formed a part was an independent and entire law, entitled: "An act to provide for uniform assessment of property, and for the collection and return of taxes thereon." Any provision which would be of any use in carrying out taxation to its results in the complete disposal of property may in a certain sense be within such a title. But it would be going very far to hold that where taxes have been finally satisfied and the property bid off on a tax sale, a provision could be properly included which had no relation whatever to the collection of taxes, and only referred to the sale of a certain class of State tax lands which had been owned for many years and were to be disposed of at any price which they would bring. As a matter of future policy it might fairly be considered as a means of ultimate collection, by making the county a guarantor not only of the validity of the taxes, but also of the marketable value of the security. But its purpose, if retrospective, is different.

The law assumes that the tax sales have been valid, and that the county has, therefore, levied all the taxes it was required to levy, and that those have been satisfied by payment or sale. It assumes further, that the accounts have been adjusted on that theory, and that as to those taxes no debt exists against the county. The legal effect of the section, if retrospective, is that the State arbitrarily shifts off on the county its bad bargains in tax lands, and compels the county, not to take them at their cost, but to make up the deficiency arising on a sale by the State itself, and over which it has no control. And its result is to require those who have already paid their taxes to be taxed over again for the default of others, who may in turn have profited by their own default, in bidding in their lands for less than was levied against them.

It has already been held by this court that provisions in this same statute which made radical changes in the rights of parties should be treated as prospective. [Clark vs. Hall, 19 Mich., 356; Smith vs. Auditor General, 20 Mich., 398.] In both of those cases the title of the statute was regarded as evidently prospective. In most of its features the statute does not seriously differ from the laws it displaced, and would create no disturbance in pending proceedings. But where any section gave ground for changes which entirely revolutionize the old system in regard to the most important rights and liabilities under tax sales, it could not be made applicable to proceedings which were no longer executory, without making its title very inappropriate, and bringing it within the mischiefs aimed at by the constitutional provision, which confines statutes to the purposes indicated by their titles.

Without considering the power of the Legislature to enact such provisions retrospectively, we think this section is not to be given such effect.

In regard to taxes charged because of injunctions, there is nothing in any tax law which allows any taxes to be so charged back until they have been rejected or held invalid by some competent authority. If the injunctions were issued under circumstances which left authority in the Auditor General to reject them for illegalities, and he actually rejected them for adequate causes, the fact that he did not wait for a decree would not be important. But no tax can legally be charged back until it has been set aside lawfully by some competent authority.

As to the interest charges complained of, we are unable, on the record, to discriminate the charges so as to know on what basis they are made up. Most of them, we suppose, depend on the matters already disposed of. We cannot discuss them without further light.

As the accounts will all have to be recast, this mandamus must be denied.

By the committee on railroads:

The committee on railroads, to whom were referred many numerous signed petitions, from all sections of the State, praying that the charters of all railroad companies in this State, operated under special charters, be repealed; that all railroad companies be compelled to organize under the general railroad law, and that the general railroad law be so amended as to require all roads to establish uniform maximum rates according to the distance of transportation for carrying all produce and merchandise over their lines; also, the memorial of H. C. Lewis, relative to defective accommodations provided for public travel by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad,

Respectfully report that they have had the same under consideration, and have directed me to report the same back to the Senate. The very large number of petitions, coming as they do from all sections of the State; the character, standing, influence and general intelligence of the petitioners, and the apparent firm conviction of the existence of the evils and wrongs complained of, and of the full power of the Legislature to remedy the evils and redress the supposed wrongs; and the equally apparent conviction that under present laws there is no remedy or redress, are considerations which have led your committee to a very careful examination,

First—As to the existence of the evils and wrongs complained of;

Second—As to the remedies provided under existing laws;

Third—As to the power and policy of the Legislature granting the specific prayer of the memorials and petitions.

After full examination and consideration, your committee, while finding much real cause of complaint, are forced to the conviction that the memorials and petitions are based upon a very general misapprehension of the facts, and of the law applicable thereto.

This is not at all surprising, when we consider, that however well informed persons may be on subjects and matters with which their habits of life and business have made them familiar, these same persons may be entirely without any just basis on which to found a judgment as to proper and remunerative rates of freight charged by railroad corporations, of whose capital employed, expenses of operating, and repairs, etc., they have no accurate knowledge, and perhaps no very adequate conception.

Grave and doubtful questions of law are entirely ignored, and positions assumed as settled and undisputed upon which lawyers and judges would hesitate to act without very careful examination.

These petitions and memorials all assume that the charters of certain railroad companies have expired, and may now be unconditionally repealed. The assumption your committee believe to be unsound, and unwarranted as a legal proposition, and mischievous in its influence as to encouraging a course of legislation that must prove most disastrous to the business interests of the State.

The petitions assume, and recite as an undisputable proposition, that the railroad corporations of the State, and especially the chartered companies, combining their immense wealth and influence, have formed monopolies, inimical to the interests of the people, making great injury to both producer and consumer. While such may be the tendency of combined wealth, your committee have sought in vain for any evidence of such action on the part of the railroad companies in this State. On the contrary, your committee believe that a careful inquiry into the real facts, an examination of the reports of the railroad companies, and of the reports of the Railroad Commissioner of this State; a comparison of the rates of freight charged by any of the companies in this State with rates charged in other States, even where legislative interference has been carried to an extent absolutely ruinous to railroad companies, will entirely disabuse any candid, fair-minded man of any such impression.

The petitioners assume and state as an undisputed proposition, that the chartered railroad companies in this State have been and are charging enormous and unjust rates of freight. Those who make this charge no doubt believe what they assert, but they cannot have examined the laws regulating the rates of freight, which these roads may charge, nor can they have examined and fully informed themselves as to the rates actually charged, and compared them with rates of freight charged by other roads in this State, or with rates charged by railroads in other States.

Such an examination into the facts will, we are fully persuaded, satisfy these petitioners that these chartered roads are not only charging rates of freight, both for local and through freight, from non-competing as well as from competing points, much below those authorized by their charters, but also much below rates charged for like services by the railroads organized under the general railroad law; and below rates charged for like services in many if not in all other States in the Union. It is true that less rates of freight are charged between points, or from points where there are competing lines; but of this, other places where there are no competing lines, have no just ground of complaint, so long as they are not charged unjust or exorbitant rates.

This very charge that larger rates are exacted from points where there are no competing lines, than from other points more favored in this respect, disproves, or is repugnant to the charge that they combine to exact exorbitant rates.

The reports of the Rail Road Commissioner of this State, and of other States, furnish much valuable information on these questions, and if they were more generally read, and more carefully studied, complaints of exorbitant charges for freight would be much less frequent than now, and when made, would not be general, but would be so specific as to direct the attention of the proper authorities to each particular case, and the proper remedy might and no doubt would be at once applied.

The petitioners assumed that the Legislature has the power to compel the chartered companies to organize under the general rail road law, and ask for a law to that effect. It seems to your committee unnecessary to devote any time in attempting to disprove this proposition, but we will refer to it again in this report.

The petitioners assumed that it would be wise and practicable to establish uniform maximum rates of freight according to distance of transportation, without regard to character or cost of road and equipments.

Such a policy would, in the opinion of your committee, be very unwise if not impracticable, and would result in serious injury to the business interests of both producer and consumer.

All the questions involved in the memorials and petitions referred to your committee, have been so fully and ably treated in the late report of the Commissioner of Railroads of this State, that your committee would rest satisfied with a reference to that report, as embodying their general views on these matters, were it not for the hope that by some further and fuller notice they may be able to dispel some doubts, to allay some prejudices, to satisfy some who may have great cause of complaint, that they have, under present laws, if not a full, at least a partial remedy, and to secure sympathy and co-operation, instead of discord and strife between these railroad corporations and the great farming and mechanical interests of the State—the producers and consumers—whose common object and united effort should be, to build up and not to pull down; to restore to vigor and prosperity and not to paralyze all the great commercial, manufacturing and producing interests of the State. All parties will readily concede the fact that in the general prostration of business, in the general shrinkages of real as well as nominal values, and the depreciation of all kinds of property, no one interest has more generally nor more severely suffered than the railroad interests; and yet, while all concede these facts, there are circumstances connected with such corporations, rendering them more open to unfounded prejudice, unjustifiable assaults and unreasonable attacks than almost any other business interest. The disposition to complain of and find fault with corporations employing a large amount of capital, especially with railroad corporations, about the cost of construction, and expense of operating, while people in general have but little knowledge, and the capital employed in such corporations being largely furnished by non-residents, has of late years become epidemic.

The want of general and accurate knowledge on the subject, the magnitude of the interests involved, and the non-residence of the parties interested, the actual and gross abuse of corporate privileges, and the disregard of individual rights of the people in general, and of the stockholders on the part of a few who have managed to obtain control of some well known railroads, have all been seized upon and been made use of, not to correct real evils, but to engender suspicion, to excite prejudice, to arouse passion, to divide communities into parties dependent upon profession or occupation, and to secure hasty, inconsiderate and unwise class legislation. Any man, and any set of men who would make use of a popular delusion or popular prejudice to build up one interest at the expense of another equally valuable interest, to elevate one class or set of men by the degradation of another class or set of men, to attain temporary advantage for one branch of industry at the expense of permanent injury to another and equally valuable branch of industry; to secure temporary personal advantage, position or power by catering to popular passions and popular delusions, do themselves a wrong, the people a wrong, the State a wrong, which it will require years to remedy.

While other western States have suffered severely from this epidemic distrust of all railroad corporations, resulting in hasty and ill-advised legislative action, which subsequent legislatures have been compelled as hastily to reverse, our own State has hitherto been comparatively free from any such distempered public opinion. It is earnestly to be hoped that the present apparent tendency to such distempered opinion, as indicated by the recitals in the memorials and petitions under consideration, may be speedily corrected, that the good, sound, common sense and wisdom of letting well enough alone, and of avoiding the calamities brought upon sister States by unwise legislative interference with particular business interests; by legislative enactments which subsequent legislatures have made haste to repeal, will secure on the part of this legislature such considerate and conservative action as shall remedy any real wrong, dispel prejudice as to imaginary ones, secure harmonious and united effort of all business interests, to build up and not to pull down; invite capital into and not drive it from the State, and secure from all the people, if not in the immediate present, certainly in the not distant future, a verdict of "well done."

The impression is very prevalent, especially among those whose reading and information, however full and extensive on some subjects, has not led them particularly to consider and examine the cost of constructing and operating railroads, that these railroad companies are all, or nearly all, immense monopolies, managed and used for the sole purpose of dishonest gains, enabled by the enormous amount of their associated capital to grind the poor, oppress and ruin the producer and the consumer, and gather the entire wealth of the country into their overflowing coffers; and this, too, while the evidence is open to all who will not persistently and voluntarily shut their eyes and stop their ears, and do violence to their common sense, that not one single railroad corporation in the State of Michigan is at present making a reasonable return of interest on the actual, not nominal, capital invested; a large majority of the railroad companies not paying a cent to stockholders, and only a small per centage of interest to bondholders, and railroads representing many millions of capital actually bankrupt and in the hands of receivers. The fact that now and then a director, a president, a manager, becomes a railroad king and individually very wealthy, by using his opportunities to draw the life-blood from the corporation over which he has secured control, is regarded as evidence of the enormous gains of such corporations. Such instances are much less common than is generally supposed, and for every single wealthy railroad wrecker king there are thousands of honest, earnest, able, hard-working railroad managers, directors and presidents, who have sunk their own private fortunes in an unavailing effort to sustain the corporations under their management from ruin, from the stringency of the times, ruinous competition, or unfriendly legislation.

Your committee are fully aware of the tendency of corporations, employing a large amount of associated capital, to assume unwarranted powers, to evade just restraints and burdens, and to disregard the rights and interests of those who are powerless to enforce them. Constant scrutiny and oversight should be maintained by the Legislature and the officers of the State, and where wrongs are committed, they should be redressed; when evils exist they should be remedied,—and your committee would be the last to palliate any such wrongs, or to hesitate in recommending suitable legislation to remedy such evils. While there are railroads in this State who do not in all instances furnish suitable accommodation for passengers and freight; others which make an unreasonable distinction in freights from different points; others still not in a suitable and safe condition, and not properly fenced; for all these evils and wrongs the present laws afford ample remedies, and points out specific modes of relief; and your committee are aware of nothing of this kind requiring present or further legislative interference.

The Commissioner of Railroads is charged with the duty, among other things, of seeing that railroad companies do not infringe their charters. If complaint is made to him of such infringement we have no reason to suppose he will not promptly and faithfully institute the necessary inquiries and see that the matter complained of is remedied or redressed. Again, under the charters and the general laws, any individual who suffers at the hands of any such corporation, by any violation of the law under which it is organized, may secure ample redress. If any individual is charged exorbitant rates of freight it is a violation of the charter, and the remedy is in his own hands.

If any undue preference is given to persons or places in transportation of property, it is in violation of charter or general laws, and the individual injured has the remedy in his own hands. Proper and suitable facilities for passengers, and freight, are required by charters or by general laws to be furnished at all stations. If this is not done the person aggrieved has the remedy in his own hands. A uniform maximum rate per mile for passengers or freight is not, in the opinion of your committee, desirable. Maximum passenger rates are fixed in the charters of chartered companies, and also under the general laws. The practical operation of this fixed rate is often such as to strongly call for legislative modification. On the longer roads, the charges are often below the maximum rate, and passenger trains are run with profit. On many roads, the maximum rate will not meet the actual expense of passenger trains, and in consequence such trains are taken off, and passengers are compelled to travel in a passenger coach attached to freight trains. It would be manifestly unjust to compel railroad companies to run passenger trains at actual loss. Passengers would be glad to pay larger fares to secure more rapid transit, as the gain in time would more than compensate for the increased expense, but the law fixing the maximum rate deprives the rail road companies of the power to afford the accommodation. The impracticability and unadvisability of establishing uniform maximum rates of freight by law, hardly seems to require argument or illustration. The length of haul, the cost and character of the road,—the grades and curves, and other matters, enter so largely into the actual cost to the company of transportation, and these vary so widely that any maximum rate which would be just, and would only be a reasonable compensation on some roads, would be an extortionate over-charge on others. This whole matter is so ably set forth in a late report of the Railroad Commissioner, that we shall content ourselves by referring to it as fully meeting our views on the subject.

While railroad companies should be subjected to careful scrutiny and control, your committee would most earnestly deprecate unfriendly legislation. To the railroad companies, while they have built and operated their roads for their own purposes, and in anticipation of profits and gains to accrue to themselves, the people of the State of Michigan are largely indebted for the settlement, development, and material wealth and prosperity of the State. They have opened up the State to settlement and cultivation, increased immensely the value of the lands, furnished cheap and speedy transportation for persons and property all over the State, built up cities and villages throughout the length and breadth of the State, brought in and expended millions of money from other States, and from foreign lands, and greatly aided in giving to our State its present position as one of the foremost States in the American union. Until the present year there has never been manifested to any considerable extent an unfriendly, or antagonistic feeling towards these corporations on the part of the people, or a disposition on the part of the legislature, to cripple them in their legitimate business or to impair the safety of the capital invested by unfriendly legislation. Your committee believe these companies have merited, and still as a rule merit, the confidence and consideration with which they have hitherto been treated.

It is strenuously urged that all companies should be compelled to organize under the general law. While it might be very desirable to have all railroad companies organized under the same law, we must bear in mind the fact that no legislation can compel the organization of a single company. If the general railroad law is such as to offer inducements for capital to seek investments under it, they will be made. If not, it will seek investment elsewhere. If the charter of every railroad company in the State might be unconditionally repealed to-day, and this Legislature were unwise enough to repeal them, it would virtually say to these companies: "Organize under the general law, or cease to exist;" but there its power would end. It could kill, but it could not infuse new life. With the temper of the people as manifested in these petitions and memorials, and the temper of the Legislature as manifested by the bills introduced, on the subject of railroad legislation, it may be doubtful whether any considerable amount of foreign capital will be likely to seek investment under our general railroad law, when, at any moment, stimulated by memorials and petitions like those under consideration, by an act of unfriendly legislation, the general law might be so altered, amended or repealed as to wipe out the capital invested.

The opinion of your committee as to the power of the Legislature to repeal certain railroad charters has already been fully expressed in a former report, and we have seen no reason to change the opinion then expressed.

We are fully satisfied that a repeal of such charters would be not only unwise, but that any law repealing them without at the same time providing for ascertaining and paying the damages to the company by reason of such repeal, according to the charter provisions, would be null and void, and would be so declared by the courts. In consideration of the wise policy heretofore pursued by this State in relation to railroads and railroad interests; in consideration of the great benefits secured to the State by the construction of such railroads; in consideration of the encouragement given by all previous legislation in the State for the investment of capital in these enterprises and of the growth and development of the State by reason of such investments; in consideration of the good name of the State, which would be seriously impaired by any seeming want of good faith in the observance of contracts, and by the passage of any laws establishing one rule of action for business carried on by private persons, and a different rule for a like business carried on by corporations,—one measure of damages for accidents, injuries, or breaches of contract for individuals, and another measure of damages in like cases for railroad corporations; in consideration of all these things, your committee most earnestly deprecate any legislation of the character prayed for in the petitions and memorials referred to them, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM STATE OFFICERS.

The President announced the following:

OFFICE OF SECRETARY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH, }
Lansing, Michigan, April 11, 1877. }

To the President of the Senate:

SIR,—At the late meeting of the State Board of Health on April 10th, the Secretary was directed to transmit to the Senate and House of Representatives a respectful memorial, praying that in the interests of public safety, the present legal flash test of kerosene oil for illuminating purposes be maintained. The Secretary was directed to include in this memorial resolutions passed by the Board at its last preceding meeting, as follows:

Resolved, That the great reduction, since the present system of State inspection of illuminating oil has been in force, in the number of casualties from lamp explosions and otherwise through the use of low-grade illuminating oils, is an indication of the value of such inspection and of the present test.

Resolved, That a committee, of which Dr. R. C. Kedzie shall be chairman, be appointed by the chair to take such steps as circumstances may require to furnish the Legislature with any information in the possession of this Board regarding the workings of the law concerning illuminating oils in this State, and to act for the Board in endeavoring to maintain the present standard of inspection, so far as regards the flash test.

The foregoing is respectfully submitted as an earnest remonstrance by the State Board of Health against any reduction of the flash test for illuminating oil below the present standard of 140° Fahrenheit.

By direction of the State Board of Health.

BILL PRESENTED TO THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary announced that he had presented the following bill to the Governor under the rules:

A bill to regulate the time for holding the annual meeting and the manner of electing trustees in Union School district No. 1, of the city of Jackson, and to repeal section 2 of act 230, of the session laws of 1875, approved May 3, 1875.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

By the committee on Public Health:

The committee on Public Health, to whom was referred

House bill No. 28 (printed No. 127), entitled

A bill to amend act No. 181 of session laws of 1875, being an act to provide for the inspection of illuminating oils manufactured from petroleum or coal oils, approved May 1, 1875;

Respectfully report that they have had the same under consideration, and as your committee believe that the safety and protection of the lives and property of the citizens of our State, is a consideration of far greater importance, and more to be desired than the enriching of foreign "oil refiners," and whereas the above named bill would, if it became a law, practically cut off all inspection of said oils, and holding the opinion that the immunity we have had in recent years in this State from disastrous fires and loss of life in consequence of explosions of such oils, has been mainly owing to the careful inspection and safe test which has been provided, required, and maintained by the present law, the committee have directed me to report the same back to the Senate, without amendment, and recommend that it do not pass, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

R. H. OSBORN, Chairman.

Whereas, The property of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, by virtue of the charter of the said company, is exempt from municipal taxation, and is only subject to a limited extent to taxation by the State ;

And whereas, This special immunity of the said company from the burden of taxation is only to the extent of protecting therefrom such property of the said company as is reasonably necessary and proper to the conduct of the sole and legitimate business of the said company ;

And whereas, In the city of Detroit, and between the said city and the Grand Trunk Junction, so called, in the township of Springwells, in the county of Wayne, the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has purchased large and extensive grounds and property and to a much greater extent than is necessary and proper to fairly conduct its own several business, and has so enlarged its grounds and property for the purpose of accommodating other railroad companies in the transaction of their business ; and in furthering that purpose the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been for some time past and is now permitting various railroad companies, to-wit: the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, the Great Western Railway Company of Canada, the Detroit

& Bay City Railroad Company, the Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railroad Company, the Flint & Pere Marquette Railroad Company, the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, and the Toledo, Canada Southern & Detroit Railway Company, to occupy and avail themselves of such enlarged grounds and property, and by such action enabling such companies to escape their legitimate burdens of taxation ;

And whereas, Also the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been and is now, to a considerable extent, conducting itself in a like manner at and about the city of Jackson, in the county of Jackson, in enlarging its grounds and property to accommodate the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, the Michigan Air Line Railroad Company, the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw Railroad Company, and the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw Railroad Company ; therefore,

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads, be, and they are hereby requested to examine into the matters aforesaid, and to take such measures as they shall deem advisable and expedient, and to institute legal proceedings if necessary to fully ascertain by what warrant or authority the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company assumes to so extend and enlarge its grounds and property beyond and in excess of the reasonable necessities of its own business, and permits other railroad companies to use and avail themselves of such facilities, and thereby enable such companies to escape from the performance of the duty they owe to the State to fully bear the proper and legitimate burdens of taxation to which they should justly be subjected. The said Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads are also requested, should they find such procedure without warrant or authority, to take such action as will be lawful and necessary to prevent a further continuance of such conduct.

Which motion prevailed.

The question being upon the adoption of the concurrent resolution,

Mr. Shoemaker moved to amend the concurrent resolution by striking out the fourth clause of the preamble ;

Which motion prevailed.

The President also announced the following :

STATE OF MICHIGAN, }
 EXECUTIVE OFFICE, }
Lansing, May 14, 1877. }

To the Senate :

I have this day approved a bill, entitled “An act to ratify and confirm the action of the Board of Control of Railroads of the State of Michigan, in disposing of and conveying certain lands for railroad purposes,” which originated in your House, and has passed both Houses of the Legislature by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elect.

In signing this bill I deem it proper to state that from a hurried and imperfect investigation of the history of the land grant which it seeks to confirm, I am of the impression that without further legislation by act of Congress, the transfer will not be valid, even now, to protect the rights of parties claiming under it. Many of those parties are actual settlers who have purchased the lands in good faith, and are upon them. In the act of the Board of Control, referred to in the title of the bill of which this act is confirmatory, I understand that the transfer of the interest of the State is made on condition that the actual settlers on the land shall be vested with the title thereof at a price not exceeding one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre. In view of this fact, and in consideration that the Legislature have undoubtedly examined the subject in all its bearings, I have approved the bill, in the hope that such proceedings may be had, if necessary, at an early day in Congress, as will quiet and settle the title so as to protect the rights of the settlers, and thus save any further litigation, of which this grant seems thus far to have had more than an ordinary share.

CHARLES M. CROSWELL.

The message was laid on the table.

Whereas, The act entitled “An act to incorporate the Detroit Savings Fund Institute,” approved March 5th, 1849, contained the following provision: “It shall be the duty of the board of trustees from time to time to regulate the rate of interest to be allowed to depositors, so that they shall receive a ratable proportion of all the profits of said corporation after deducting the necessary expenses ;”

And whereas, It is alleged that in violation of said provision a surplus of over $130,000 was accumulated by said corporation ;

And whereas, The said corporation was reorganized in 1871, as the “Detroit Savings Bank ;” therefore,

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Attorney General be directed to report to the Governor as soon as practicable whether said surplus moneys belong to the State, the bank, or the depositors, and if they belong to the State what legislation (if any) is necessary to enable the State to maintain an action against said "Detroit Savings Bank," for the recovery of said surplus earnings ;

SIR,—I am instructed by the House to re-transmit the following concurrent resolution :

Whereas, The property of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, by virtue of the charter of the said company, is exempt from municipal taxation, and is only subject to a limited extent to taxation by the State ;

And whereas, 'This special immunity of the said company from the burden of taxation is only to the extent of protecting therefrom such property of the said company as is reasonably necessary and proper to the conduct of the sole and legitimate business of the said company ;

And whereas, In the city of Detroit, and between the said city and the Grand Trunk Junction, so called, in the township of Springwells, in the county of Wayne, the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has purchased large and extensive grounds and property and to a much greater extent than is necessary and proper to fairly conduct its own several business, and has so enlarged its grounds and property for the purpose of accommodating other railroad companies in the transaction of their business ; and in furthering that purpose the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been for some time past and is now permitting various railroad companies, to-wit : the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, the Great Western Railway Company of Canada, the Detroit & Bay City Railroad Company, the Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railroad Company, the Flint & Pere Marquette Railroad Company, the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, and the Toledo, Canada Southern & Detroit Railway Company, to occupy and avail themselves of such enlarged grounds and property ;

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads, be, and they are hereby requested to examine into the matters aforesaid, and to take such measures as they shall deem advisable and expedient, and to institute legal proceedings if necessary to fully ascertain by what warrant or authority the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company assumes to so extend and enlarge its grounds and property beyond and in excess of the reasonable necessities of its own business, and permits other railroad companies to use and avail themselves of such facilities, and thereby enable such companies to escape from the performance of the duty they owe to the State to fully bear the proper and legitimate burdens of taxation to which they should justly be subjected. The said Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads are also requested, should they find such procedure without warrant or authority, to take such action as will be lawful and necessary to prevent a further continuance of such conduct.

The same being as amended by the Senate, and to inform the Senate that the same is concurred in by the House, with one exception, viz.:

The House insists on the fourth subdivision of the original preamble as follows:

“And whereas, Also the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been and is now, to a considerable extent, conducting itself in a like manner at and about the city of Jackson, in the county of Jackson, in enlarging its grounds and property to accommodate the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, the Michigan Air Line Railroad Company, the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw Railroad Company, and the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw Railroad Company; therefore,”

By unanimous consent the following report was submitted :

The special committee of the Senate on taxation were appointed on Saturday, May 13th, under the following resolution :

Resolved, That the whole subject of amending or revising the tax laws of the State be referred to a special committee of three, to be appointed by the President, to report as soon as practicable, recommending what action should be taken at the present session to relieve the State from the burdensome operation of the present laws, and what policy would be wise, legal, and best to adopt to secure all needful amendments or revisions of the existing laws affecting taxation before another general tax is levied,

Respectfully report as follows :

At the time of their appointment there were no bills on the subject before the Senate, and none were referred to them until Tuesday, May 15th, when substitute for House bills Nos. 34, 51, 101, 104, 119, 241, 300, 524, 525, and 540 (printed No. 369), providing for a general revision of the tax laws and tax system of this State was received from the House and referred to this committee. Immediately after their appointment, your committee began to study the operation of the tax laws and system of Michigan, with the view of ascertaining its merits and defects.

There seemed to be a general belief prevailing that our system had all at once been found to be so defective that we must suddenly abandon it and model after the systems of other and surrounding states. Is this belief well founded?

The object of tax laws is to collect revenue. That system which most efficiently does that work ought to be considered the best.

Our investigations have led us to believe that the system of collecting taxes in Michigan, up to A. D. 1875 at least, has proved to be more efficient than those prevailing in surrounding States.

On the authority of Auditor General Humphrey we present the following facts to sustain that belief :

COMPARISONS.

In 1872 out of $11,660,055.84 taxes levied in Michigan and returnable to the Auditor General's office ten months after the levy, only $170,809.16 remained uncollected, or less than one and one-half per cent of the whole levy.

INDIANA.

In the same year in Indiana one year after the levy twenty per cent remained uncollected ; or, to put it more forcibly, if Michigan had been operating under a system no more effective than Indiana, instead of $171,000 uncollected taxes remaining we would have had $2,332,011.17. Therefore it was plain we did not want for any Indiana systems.

OHIO AND MINNESOTA.

So if we had been under the Ohio system, instead of $171,000 delinquent taxes we would have had $442,082.12, and if under the Minnesota system at the same time we would have had uncollected nearly $1,120,000.

IOWA.

Of the State tax levied for the years 1858 to 1873, amounting to $8,079,504.52, there were at the close of 1873, delinquent and unavailable, taxes to the amount of $452,648.03, or five and six-tenths per cent of the aggregate of State taxes for the years stated, while of the aggregate of taxes levied in Michigan for the years 1859 to 1873 there remains uncollected only forty-six-one-hundredths of one per cent. Had the taxes of Iowa been as nearly collected as were those of Michigan, there would have remained uncollected $37,165.72, instead of the $452,648.03 which she actually had.

ILLINOIS.

In Illinois, the State that seems to be here considered worthy of emulation in this matter, of the State tax levied in 1873 there was, in November, 1874, twenty-five per cent uncollected, and more than half of this, nearly $700,000, had been enjoined by the courts. Of that not enjoined there remains $572,724.09 uncollected. If Illinois had been operating under as efficient a system as Michigan was at that time, instead of $572,000 tax not enjoined, but uncollected, she would have had only $76,000.

But if Michigan had been operating under a system no more efficient than Illinois, she would have had $1,329,246.36 uncollected, instead of $223,068.02, or which she actually had at that time of the same year's tax. This comparison shows the Michigan system to be far more efficient in the past than those of the States named.

AS GOOD AS ANY.

Until some other system can be found, which after years of practical operation proves to be superior to ours, it would not be the part of wisdom to abandon the one we have. With its general features our people are familiar, and our officers are used to carrying out its details. Experience and decisions of our courts are pointing out its defects, and these alone we should seek to remedy.

From 1859 to 1873 inclusive only about one and one-half of one per cent. of each year's levy remained uncollected at the close of each fiscal year. This deficiency was each year made up to the State treasury by interest and penalties collected on the delinquent land, so that the State treasury each year received the full amount of the taxes levied each year in cash, and actually collected enough besides to pay the expenses of the State incurred therein. Many erroneous impressions have prevailed in reference to the working of our system in this regard.

Many, assuming that the State treasury was deficient each year by the whole amount of the delinquent tax uncollected, have complained because the State credited these delinquent taxes to the counties, and after a limited period paid over the whole of the same to the counties making such returns, less the State tax. They say this is making the counties that collect all pay taxes of those who do not collect.

If the State pays over to any counties more money or faster than it collects taxes for such counties, does it not have to collect this deficiency by general tax on the State at large, and thus make the counties which do collect promptly pay into the treasury that which it pays out to those counties which do not so collect? If the State carries uncollected taxes of certain counties, do not the other counties have to carry the State? Such seems to have been quite generally believed. Such, however, is not the fact, or was not up to 1875.

PENALTIES AND TAX-TITLE SALES.

Under the law, as it existed up to that time, the State collected from penalties on delinquents and sales of tax lands sufficient to enable it to carry the uncollected taxes it had to under the law, without imposing any burden therefor upon those who did pay. Experience had shown what amount of penalties and interest it was necessary to impose on the delinquent taxes which were collectible, to enable the State to do so. They were so imposed in the law of 1869, and continued to keep the treasury replenished until they were materially reduced in 1875. The reduction of the penalties has proved to be a mistake. The interest has been so reduced that men do not pay as promptly as before. This increases the amount the State has to carry for the counties, and also materially reduces the annual revenue from the penalties on delinquents, on which it solely relied, to enable it to so carry the delinquent counties.

Some say that these penalties are unjust and oppressive. Which is the more unjust and oppressive, to impose a penalty of 30 to 50 per cent on a delinquent tax of ten dollars, or seek to make an absolute and uncontestable sale of his land worth $500 for a $10 tax? The question answers itself.

Our system, before it was tampered with, combined both the penalty and tax-title theory, and it worked well enough for the purpose of prompt and efficient collection of the whole revenue represented by each levy. A State must rely on one or both of these means of collection and supplying deficiencies in taxes, or else throw the deficiency back upon those who once paid their full share of the tax.

But they say now our tax-titles are not worth any thing, and we cannot dispose of them. First, We are selling them every day. Second, The defect is not so much in the law as in the execution of it. As long as officers disobey the plain letter of the law, levy taxes without the sanction of the law or in excess of legal authority, so long will it be found to be difficult to take a man's property without due process of law.

Levy the taxes according to law, and there will be no difficulty in getting a good and perfect title under our law on a tax sale. The aim, then, of some is to cure the defects and illegalities in the execution of the law. There may be better means of doing so than we now possess, but your committee have not had time to sufficiently investigate them to recommend any at present. Our tax system has been changed and tampered with in another way which has tended strongly to invalidate tax titles of late, and impair general confidence in them among our people.

EFFECT OF SPECIAL LOCAL TAXES ON TAX TITLES.

We allude to allowing all sorts of special local taxes to be returned and go in the sales of land with ordinary taxes. These special taxes are generally levied with less care than ordinary taxes under the general law. They are attended with greater difficulties in raising and levying, and local officers are not as familiar with their duties under the several laws or charters under which such taxes are levied, and such taxes alone render void nearly every tax title which includes them.

These being returned to the State and treated like ordinary taxes, are finally carried by the State with the ordinary taxes, and thus become a burden on the system and lessen the power of the Treasury to carry the ordinary taxes of the poorer counties for future collection. They cut off its resources from sale of tax titles because they vitiate the whole title and render it impossible to realize.

on the ordinary taxes entering into the same title. Put an excessive special tax on a lot of land and the owner will refuse to pay all ordinary taxes on the same land. To show the extent to which some of this local taxation is carried, we state that of drain taxes alone there were levied in the State during the years 1870, 1871, 1872 and 1873, $1,422,171.66.

We have been digging ditches for such counties as Bay, Saginaw, Monroe, and others, to the tune of $20,000 to $50,000 each.

Your committee have not yet been able to find any bill in control of the Senate to reach these drain taxes and prevent the continuance of this evil. A large number of charters of our cities and villages allow them to return not only all ordinary, but all special taxes spread in the corporations. No where is our taxation as high as in cities and some villages, and as long as every dollar they choose to spread is collected, either from the owner of the property or the State as the tax title purchaser, we may expect these taxes to continue to deplete the State treasury.

LANSING—HER TAX RETURNS.

Take the city of Lansing for an example. She is in debt about ten per cent. on her assessed valuation. Of every dollar of taxes levied here this year 3½ cents is for State tax, 7¼ cents for county purposes and 89¼ cents for the various kinds of city taxes.

It should be understood that the general taxes include those for the State and county expenses, city contingent, school and highway funds. Now, to give of what is meant by special taxes this very city of Lansing affords a copious and interesting bill of particulars. Here is her return of special taxes for 1874:

Bridge tax.....	$1,666 09
Railroad bonds interest.....	676 97
Reservoir tax.....	42 66
Cemetery and Fire Department.....	443 78
Ward tax.....	6 80
Grading.....	108 78
Sidewalks.....	443 89
Shade trees.....	154 00
Sprinkling streets.....	62 60
Lamp-post fund.....	2 66

Special taxes returned for 1875 are as follows:

Bridge tax.....	$389 21
Bridge tax.....	243 10
Railroad bonds interest.....	892 24
Cemetery and Fire Department.....	205 24
Grading.....	1,209 13
Penalties.....	243 31
Sidewalks.....	107 26

OTHER PLACES THAT RETURN THEIR LOCAL TAXES.

The following are some of the other cities and villages which are allowed by their charters to return similar taxes:

Bay City, 1874. General or ordinary taxes returned delinquent, $37,937.43, of which $12,289 41 was for school purposes; special taxes returned, $6,549.35. These special taxes consisted mainly of interest on bonds; in 1875, ordinary taxes returned, $30,011.05; special, $8,044.

Big Rapids, 1874. General taxes returned, $6,094.97; special, $1,103.23. In 1875, general taxes, $4,003.17; special, $1,674.23.

Grand Rapids, 1874. General taxes returned, $11,363.26; and among even these general taxes appears an item on account of railroad bonds; special taxes returned, $1,699.33, all of which was a special ditch tax. In 1875, general taxes returned were $22,985.02, and into these again came railroad bonds. The special taxes returned the same year are specified as "ditch taxes" and "water taxes."

Manistee, 1874. General taxes returned, $5,098; special, $2,519.54.

Holland City, 1875. General taxes returned, $952.21; special, $274.85.

Marquette, 1874. General taxes returned, $4,840.98; special, "water tax," $1,763.91. In 1875, general taxes returned were $13,344.09, of which $5,502 was school tax; special ("water tax and interest," whatever that may mean), $4,193.67.

And so on with many other cities and villages, such as Adrian, Benton Harbor, Big Rapids, Caledonia Station, Charlotte, Corunna, Evart, Flint, Grand Haven, Greenville, Hastings, Holland, Holly, Ionia, Ishpeming, Lansing, Loomis, Lowell, Ludington, Mason, Monroe, Nashville, Negaunee, Otsego, Owosso, Plainwell, Reed City, Romeo, Sanford, and St. Clair.

THE PRESENT LAWS.

Section 9, Article XIV. of the Constitution prohibits the State from being a party to or interested in any work of internal improvement or engaging in carrying on any such work.

To return these local drain taxes and those for special improvements in our cities to the State, with ordinary State, county and municipal taxes, is practically to make the State engage in carrying on such local improvements in violation of the constitution. It is doing indirectly what it would be impossible to do directly.

The return, and carrying for collection by the State of such kind of local taxes is not a legitimate part of nor contemplated by the regular tax system of this State, but an evil which has been forced upon it without due consideration of the consequences.

It is too late to reach this evil in any city charters this session.

The effect of the late decision of our Supreme Court upon our tax law has been over-estimated. It was in reference to taxes charged back to counties under the "Five-year law," so called. This was passed as a part of the tax law of 1869. It was sought to make it apply to all taxes assessed previous to 1869 as well as subsequent. The Court decide in substance that it could not be applied to taxes assessed previous to 1869, because no such intent of the Legislature was expressed in the law.

Your committee believe that it would be competent for the Legislature to still restore to the law of 1869 the principle of making the counties carry the small amount of taxes of each year since 1869 remaining uncollected, after the State had carried such taxes for a term of years and collected all that could be fairly presumed to be collectible.

This would relieve the State from an accumulation of uncollected taxes since 1869.

The Supreme Court declared this principle in that act, not retrospective but in the same connection it is said "as a matter of future policy it might fairly be considered as a means of ultimate collection by making the county a guarantor not only of the validity of the taxes but also of the marketable value of the security.

But it is said that the State becomes an absolute purchaser at the tax sales and cannot thus relieve itself. This may be true when applied to purchases previous to 1869, for certainly those were all the tax purchases the court had in contemplation when it uttered that dictum. The further dictum of the court above quoted, that as a matter of future policy it might make the county a guarantor, etc., shows us they did not apply the absolute purchaser idea to the sales to the State under the law of 1869.

To remove all doubts upon that question and relieve the State from any possible future accumulations of "bad bargains," your committee believe in so amending the present law as to make the bids to the State expressly in trust for the collection of the tax liens, and that the tax on the land be not extinguished by such bids. Such were some of the results of the investigations of your committee on the operation of and defects which have unwittingly been allowed to creep into our present system. All of these defects they believe can be cured, and the system restored to as efficient operation as in former years.

The bill which came from the House came to our hands at so late a day, that your committee could not possibly maturely consider it. If we had no system now, and were about to start one, we might be inclined to adopt and test it. But the changes proposed are so radical, that your committee, without more mature consideration of the subject, could not take the responsibility of recommending an effort to change our present system, so radically, at this late day in the session.

The evil of special local taxes being returnable to the State is not met by the House bill, and cannot be reached by it. Your committee have, therefore, recommended only such legislation as will prevent the State from accumulating permanent burdens in the future, and tend to relieve it from those gathered in the past. This, in the opinion of your committee, is all we can prudently do in the limited time before us.

The committee have unanimously agreed to submit the subjoined report on the House bill referred to us.

Report accepted and committee discharged.

On motion of Mr. Baxter,

The Senate concurred in the adoption of the substitute reported for the bill by the committee.

The bill was ordered printed, referred to the committee of the whole, and placed on the general order.

On motion of Mr. Burleigh,

The following concurrent resolution was taken from the table.

Whereas, The property of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, by virtue of the charter of the said company, is exempt from municipal taxation, and is only subject to a limited extent to taxation by the State;

And whereas, This special immunity of the said company from the burden of taxation is only to the extent of protecting therefrom such property of the said company as is reasonably necessary and proper to the conduct of the sole and legitimate business of the said company;

And whereas, In the city of Detroit, and between the said city and the Grand Trunk Junction, so called, in the township of Springwells, in the county of Wayne, the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has purchased large and extensive grounds and property, and to a much greater extent than is necessary and proper to fairly conduct its own several business, and has so enlarged its grounds and property for the purpose of accommodating other railroad companies in the transaction of their business; and in furthering that purpose the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been for some time past and is now permitting various railroad companies, to-wit: the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, the Great Western Railway Company of Canada, the Detroit & Bay City Railroad Company, the Detroit Lansing & Northern Railroad Company, the Flint & Pere Marquette Railroad Company, the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, and the Toledo, Canada Southern and Detroit Railway Company to occupy and avail themselves of such enlarged grounds and property;

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads be, and they are hereby requested to examine into the matters aforesaid, and to take such measures as they shall deem advisable and expedient, and to institute legal proceedings if necessary to fully ascertain by what warrant or authority the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company assumes to so extend and enlarge its grounds and property beyond and in excess of the reasonable necessities of its own business, and permits other railroad companies to use and avail themselves of such facilities, and thereby enable such companies to escape from the performance of the duty they owe to the State to fully bear the proper and legitimate burdens of taxation to which they should justly be subjected. The said Attorney General and Commissioner of Railroads are also requested, should they find such procedure without warrant or authority, to take such action as will be lawful and necessary to prevent a further continuance of such conduct.

The same being a House concurrent resolution as amended by the Senate,

In which amended form the House had concurred except so far as the striking out of the following fourth subdivision of the original preamble:

And whereas, Also the said the Michigan Central Railroad Company has been and is now, to a considerable extent, conducting itself in a like manner at and about the city of Jackson, in the county of Jackson, in enlarging its grounds and property to accommodate the Grand River Valley Railroad Company, the Michigan Air Line Railroad Company, the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw Railroad Company, and the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw Railroad Company; therefore,

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, }
Lansing, May 17, 1877. }

To the Legislature:

I herewith transmit a communication from the Adjutant General of the State, accompanied by a brief but valuable sketch or record of the "war flags of Michigan."

It is anticipated that these flags will be deposited in the new capitol on its completion, and it seems fitting and proper that every important circumstance connected with their history should be recorded and preserved.

Many of them are mere shreds, tattered, torn, and bullet pierced, which illustrate the valor of the men of Michigan, as well as the important part the State has borne in some of the great wars of the United States, especially in the war with Mexico, and in the more recent struggle for the maintenance and preservation of the National Union.

Beneath their folds more than ninety thousand of the truest sons of the State pressed forward through privations and amid dangers to share largely and gloriously in nearly all the battles of the great Rebellion. With unyielding devotion many gave up their lives that the nation might live, while the bleeding wounds and the trials and sufferings of others attested their fidelity to the Union and their valor in its behalf. And when their work was accomplished, in the day of their triumph, treasuring no spirit of resentment, with moderation unsurpassed, these heroes freely forgave their enemies, and restoring peace on unparalleled terms of generosity to the vanquished, betook themselves again to the quiet pursuits of life, by energy, industry and thrift to renew prosperity and make good the waste of war.

These battle flags are mementoes of patriotism and heroism worthy of remembrance, and their history should be carefully and gratefully cherished and preserved. I therefore respectfully recommend that the Legislature take such action by concurrent resolution, as shall provide for the publication of the history as a Legislative document in proper and suitable form.

CHARLES M. CROSWELL.

On motion of Mr. Taylor,

The message and accompanying communication were referred to the committees on printing and military affairs, jointly.

RESPONSE OF THE PRESIDENT.

SENATORS:—I have no language to express my deep sense of the obligations due to you for your constant and unwavering kindness to me during our intercourse in this body; but I will not let the opportunity pass without tendering you my grateful thanks, not so much for this kind expression of your good wishes,—which common custom would suggest,—as for the evidence you have manifested at all times and under all circumstances, that you gave me freely, your kind wishes, and also your confidence. This is true of every Senator, and it is also true of each officer of the Senate. All, including the janitor and messengers, have labored to make my work easy and my position agreeable and pleasant.

If I have been able to perform my duties with any degree of credit, it is due to your kind aid and indulgence, and I can assure you that I shall remember it, and you, with the utmost kindness and gratitude while memory lasts.

I have been a spectator,—not an indifferent one,—of your labors. I have witnessed your industry, faithfulness and zeal in the service of the State, and I realize, as very few have an opportunity to do, their vital importance and the difficulties that you have had to encounter. It is not for me to decide as to the wisdom of your acts, or to judge of the effect of your legislation upon the people of the State. The one will be determined by the future, the other by those who sent you here to represent them. I feel that you would receive a kind and charitable judgment if they had been witnesses, as I have, of your constant desire and efforts to serve them. Again, I thank you all for your kindness and courtesy to me and to each other. I shall remember it with real pleasure while I live. It will always make me happy to take you each or all by the hand anywhere, and more especially at the humble home below here, on the banks of Grand River, where I live.
